BODY OF ONE MISSING MAN FOUND IN LAKE

Believe That Both Men In Plane Lost Lives In Lake Erie

Search Continues For Mc-Nulty After Finding Of Parker

(International News Service)
CONNEAUT, O., Sept. 29.—
With the finding of the body of Willard Parker, pilot of the Curtiss-Robin plane, whose wreckage was washed up on the Lake Erie shore a mile and a half east of here, searchers today were continuing to hunt for William J.
McNulty, his passenger, who posed as owner of the rented plane.

Parker's brother-in-law, George Leppala, and Henry Jarvie, a farmer, found the body yesterday morning as it lay on the shore with the heavy waves of the lake dashing over it.

Reading of the finding of the wreckage of the plane, the two men went to search for the bodies of its passengers. They walked almost directly to where Parker's body lay on the shore.

Took Off Wednesday
Parker and McNulty took off from Cleveland airport last Wednesday.
The plane was chartered from the Curtiss-Wright Company in Columbus, O., and was flown to Cleveland by McNulty with John Corradi as pilot.

At Cleveland McNulty, claiming he was owner of the plane, ordered lights for night flying installed. He engaged Parker and took off before the additional lighting equipment had been installed.

After the plane's disappearance the Curtiss-Wright Company sent out notices ordering the plane to be held as soon as sighted. The company claims McNulty was not empowered to hire any other pilot but Corradi.

Widow Collapses
Mrs. Doris Parker, the pilot's wife, collapsed when notified that positive identification had been made of the body.

There's not a paid football

Boys can't tackle as good as

COMMISSIONERS TO

With the receipt of a check for $200.00 from the Pittsburgh Motor Club, the Lawrence county commis-

$500.00 to complete the entire reward to be paid for the capture of Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague.

The check for $200.00 of the Pittsburgh, Sunday, and in turn Mr.

Rentz handed it to Thomas J. Mc-sioners.

For some weeks there appeared to be some difficulty in getting the Pittsburgh reward. This was due not to any attempt of the Pittsburgh
Motor Club to ease out of its prom-

President Hoover Sends Mes-

100,000 LIVES ARE LOST EACH YEAR

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 29.—President Herbert Hoover, in a message read at the opening of the National Safety Congress here today, termed the annual death toll of nearly 100-000 persons in the United States due to accidents a "challenge to the resourcefulness of the nation to devise measures to eliminate this disastrous loss both of economic assets and of precious human values."

President Charles E. Pettibone of the National Safety Council and Mr.
Hoover's message to the congress which was expected to attract more than 7,000 persons to Pittsburgh during the week.

"I deeply reiterate the value of the work of the National Safety Council in efforts to prevent the frightful loss of human life due to preventable accidents in industry and elsewhere," the President's message said.

"The death by accident of almost 100,000 persons in one year in the United States is a challenge to the resourcefulness of the nation to devise measures to eliminate this disastrous loss both of economic assets

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—A fresh which was so closely identified with the Teapot Dome scandal, may be revealed through an inquiry undertaken today by the senate campaign fund to determine the source of a $500 lib-against Senator George W. Norris, veteran insurgent leader.

Investigators for the committee were ordered by Senator Nye (R) of North Dakota, chairman, to learn whether the $500 bond, used to help the grocer Norris, came from the huge supply of Liberty bonds purchased by the Con-

a decade ago. More than a quarter million dollars of the Continental bonds were traced previously into the

Three Horses Die In Flames

Fire Destroys Barn Of New Model Baking Company
Last Night

LOSS OF BLAZE IS PLACED NEAR $2,120

Three horses perished and a man who attempted to rescue them was overcome by smoke in a spectacular blaze which swept the Moravia street stables of the New Model Baking Company Sunday evening, causing damage unofficially estimated at $2-120. The cause of the conflagration is a mystery.

Fourteen tons of hay in an adjoining shed to which flames spread helped to feed the fire. Mountainous flames attracted hundreds from South Side streets and endangered frame dwellings surrounding the stables before firemen mastered the fire.

Rescue One Animal

Fritz Kozlowski, 26, of 1517 Moravia street, in the rear of which the stables and hay shed were located received medical treatment after he was overcome by smoke in one of the stalls.
Kozlowski and Byron Zeiter, firemen from Central station, broke into the stables and succeeded in pulling a workhorse to safety. Another animal was dragged out, but it had been burned so badly that upon advice of a veterinarian it was later shot. Three other horses were found dead.

While the retaining fence has not as yet been erected along the new overhead bridge, the new overhead crossroad is open for traffic and is being used.

The Enon to New Galilee route is now open the entire distance from one town to the other on the con-which crosses the Pennsylvania tracks has quite an elevation to reach it from the Enon side, but it eliminates one of the worst grade crossings in the district.

At the present time all drivers are warned to make the trip over the new bridge slowly, because of the lack of protection along the sides of the road, and the fact that the approach is a curve.

(International News Service)
BELLEFONTE, Pa., Sept.
29.—Ringed by a cordon of more than two hundred armed men, scattered through the dense forests of the Allegheny Mountains, a fleeing 22-year-old "killer" today was plunging in mad haste in a desperate bid for freedom.

The boy is George B. Skidmore, of Pittsburgh. He is wanted for the murder of Charles P. Hammond, a crippled gasoline station attendant, who was ruthlessly shot down without cause during a holdup of his filling station more than a week ago.

Add More Crimes
Search for Skidmore was pressed in grim earnest today. Saturday, when capture seemed almost inevitable, the youth shot down Private J. G. Olmes of the state highway patrol and William Fox, custodian of the Rattlesnake Mountain Air Mail Beacon.

Olmes and Fox, acting on a "tip" that Skidmore and William Dutton, 24, alleged accomplice in the holdup, would be found in a lonely cabin near here had gone to the cabin to arrest both men.

Skidmore whipped out a gun and shot at the officers. Both fell, seriously wounded. Dutton lost his nerve police say, and surrendered. Skidmore, apparently wounded by Olmes who returned the youth's fire, limped away into the woods.

Flaming Youth Appears In Modernistic Opera

MARY GARDEN

By E. M. CIPRIANI

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—A grand opera of the present day, interpolated with jazz, yet drawn on a famous story of yesterday, will be given for the first time by the Chicago Civic Opera company this season. The composer is Hamilton Forrest a young American of Chicago.

The name of his opera is "Camille." Forrest drew his inspiration from the old tale of Alexandre Dumas, fils, but with a twentieth century vision brought his theme down to the present day. "Camille" with a modern complexion, will be different, it is predicted.

Modern Complexion
First, it portrays this decade.
Second, one scene will be replete with song hits from the worried world of jazz.

Third, the language of "flaming youth" will be used in the book, the first time that sedate grand opera will have been doctored with such oral verbiage.

Baker suffered a bad fracture of the knee and other bruises. He was re-

He had been in Cleveland, O., lights of a street car coming down

It is expected that the contracts foundation work will probably be started this fall.

Miss Harvard To Reach City Today

Left New York Sunday And Makes Stop At Coraopolis

CONCERT IS NOT FORMAL AFFAIR

Thoroughly prepared to give New Castle the best concert of her career, Sue Harvard, soprano soloist who appears in the Cathedral auditorium Tuesday evening in a benefit recital for the Jameson Memorial Hospital, left New York City Sunday evening and today is resting at the home of a sister in Coraopolis. Sometime this afternoon she will come to New Castle.

Interest in the recital is confined not alone to New Castle. Music lovers will be here from Youngstown, Butler, Ellwood City, Sharon, Beaver Falls, Grove City, Meadville, Oil City, Franklin, Greenville and Pittsburgh. Congressman J. Howard Swick and a party will be here from Beaver Falls to attend the recital.

Not a Formal Affair
In the midst of a few of the idea has originated that the recital will be a formal affair. This is untrue. While it is true that there will be a few in evening wear for the recital, this is a matter of personal taste and will probably be confined to the boxes. The matter of what to wear is one that is entirely up to the people attending and there is no thought of making it a formal affair.

Because of the number of people coming from other cities, there will be a number of dinner parties, about twelve in all, tendered guests by New Castle people. These dinner parties will be held prior to the recital in the homes of those tendering the dinners.

Miss Harvard's programme and the assisting artists will be announced on Tuesday. Sufficient to say it will be a program of merit, one that will allow her a wide latitude to display the facility of her voice. The artists assisting her will be musicians of ability, ones who have proven themselves worthy of appearing in a concert of this kind.

his sister, denied statements made by her brother that was an inexperienced flyer. She claimed that ill-fated plane was not equipped for night flying. She advanced the theory that the plane was wrecked in a forced landing on Lake Erie because of motor trouble.

Parker, a veteran pilot, was president of the Willard Parker Aircraft Company, which closed three months ago. He served in both the Canadian and United States aircraft forces during the war.

McNulty was president of the Consumers Salt Company of Columbus, O.

Searchers today were still combing the section of the beach where the plane wreckage was found Wednesday in an attempt to find the manufacturer's body.

The Smith-Jones Sons company, manufacturers of cotton sheeting, authorized a field representative to go to a certain city in a middle western state and sell to a firm there 100,000 yards of the sheeting at so much a yard, to be delivered beginning at a certain time and at the rate of 25,000 yards a week. The salesman went to the dealer and the dealer agreed to the terms named and a contract was drawn up and signed. In due time the Smith-Jones Sons company acknowledged the contract. But the goods were slow in coming, for some reason. When it did come it was in quantities far less than the 25,000 yards specified in the contract. The dealer was in a quandary. He had meanwhile contracted with a sugar refinery to sell the sheeting, made up into bags, and when the sheeting failed to arrive in the yardage specified he was forced to buy in the open market and at an increased price. This was costing a good bit of the profits, and one day completely out of patience with the Smith-Jones Sons company, he notified them that he must have the sheeting by a certain day. Then he sat down to wait, and when it did not arrive he sued.

How would you decide this case? Make up your mind before you read the decision. Decision will be found on Classified Page.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Many of the homes in the borough are now showing a new roof that has recently been placed.

Butchering season seems to have started earlier than usual on the farms of the county this season. A local butcher told Pa Newc Saturday night that several home dressed hogs had already been marketed here.

A trip about the country districts shows many fields that are a deep green, while wheat is coming up nicely, indicating that the effects of the summer drought have been replaced with near normal conditions.

Out along the Enon Valley road Pa Newc noted a large hog with a family of ten or a dozen little porkers. The little fellows will have to speed up their growth if they are to get in shape to stand the winter blasts.

Not that Father Time has again turned backward or onward, whichever way the hour might be, in other cities, Pa. Newc is again on the same time with surrounding cities and such a relief not to have to figure out whether one has to be some place an hour late or an hour early.

Workmen have started the erection of the mechanical ball player in front of The News office for the purpose of presenting the world series games which start Wednesday.

According to reports from that district, for the first time in 50 years flow of water over the dam at McConnell's Mills ceased during the present drought.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 27, 1930.

Pa. Newc, New Castle, Pa.

Dear Sir:—

Just read in your paper of September 24 that one of your "family" is in the U. S. Naval hospital, Washington, D. C. and that he had stated that he had seen New Castle Pottery there. New Castle Pottery is used almost entirely throughout the Navy. On this ship New Castle pottery is the only pottery used.

Then too Ellwood, Pa. is represented by piping from the Tube mill. I have seen several boilers from Oil City.

Electrical equipment from Westinghouse, Pittsburgh.

So Penna., is well represented thru-out the navy and New Castle is sure doing her bit.

Sincerely yours,
Chas. L. Brest,
U. S. S. McFarland.

Painters set to work this morning at the local public library building and are engaged in putting on the second coat of paint on the walls.

Pa Newc has a pet flock of sparrows which arrive every morning outside his window to wait for breakfast and when the handful of crumbs are thrown out it does not take long for them to disappear. With the cold weather approaching it might be well to begin remembering the birds, even before the snow falls.

Among the automobiles destroyed by fire in the Universal Sales Company garage in the rear of 418 Croton avenue early this morning was an ancient Model T Ford for which the manager of the company, J. W. Hartwell had traded with a new machine. The old car brought here as an antique was a 1910 model. It was bought from Paul Raub of Edenburg, where it had been in use for mail delivery for over a decade.

Among the unusual equipment of firemen here are several pitchforks. On Sunday evening this equipment was put into use when firemen heaved part of the 14 tons of hay which helped to feed flames in the Moravia street stables.

Are people staying put more than they used to? Pa Newc saw a piano moved from an East North street third floor apartment this morning and it was the first he has seen being moved for over a year. Several years ago it was a common ordinary sight.

City drinking fountains were not used so much today as usual. Citizens felt more like quenching their thirst with cups of coffee.

James McKinley, a New Castleite, writes to Pa Newc of a wonderful sight he found on a visit to Washington, D. C. during the recent air maneuvers. Three airplanes flying in formation were beautifully illuminated in red, white and blue. All planes changed colors at intervals, to the same color, red, white and blue.

They are substantially made, beautifully finished and fully guaranteed in every respect. You may have these desks in the usual green, oak, walnut or mahogany.

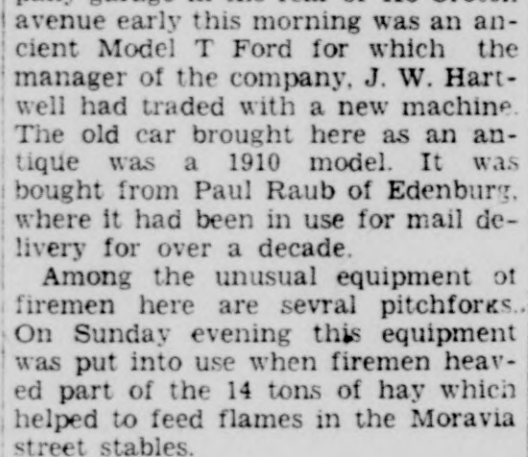

See them in our display room now.

STAR LORE
INTO THE DEPTHS OF SPACE
By Arthur De V. Carpenter

OUR SOLAR SYSTEM is very remote from any star; there is a vast open void around it. The nearest star is about 272,000 astronomical units distant. An astronomical unit is the mean distance of the earth from the sun. Strictly speaking, it is 92,870,000 miles. If our solar system were as remote as the nearest star, our sun would look like one of the brighter stars, but the most powerful telescope would not make visible any of the planets. Of all the stars beheld by the unaided eye, at least half of them are a hundred times as distant. The largest telescopes pick up stars ten thousand times as remote.

Central and No. 5 stations arrived. Smoke filled the rooms of the De-Cerbo home, partly damaging the house before the flames had been quelled. Several rabbits in the De-Cerbo garden adjoining the stables were found dead.

Fireman Zeiler had two fingers badly burned while trying to free one of the impounded horses.

Time Is Lost
Fire officials believe much time was lost before the fire was reported to headquarters. Henry Budzowski one of the owners of the New Model Baking Company, 101 West Long avenue, told Fire Chief Lynn that fire was discovered at 5:45 p. m. Records show that the alarm was received at 6:20 p. m., 35 minutes later.

Considerable time was lost when a pedestrian, Ralph Frenzel, 201 West Washburn avenue, Mahoningtown, attempted to send an alarm from the case of what was formerly Box 57, located at Moravia and West Miller streets. Chief Lynn said the city electrician recently disconnected the mechanism and sent it to be repaired.

Well Organized.
A series of inquiries revealed that Harry F. Sinclair, Robert W. Stewart, Harry M. Blackner and James E. O'Neil organized the concern. It was used to buy 33,333,333 barrels of oil at $1.50 from Col. A. E. Humphreys, Texas oil man, the oil being immediately sold to the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company and the Prairie Oil & Gas company at $1.75 a barrel. The profits were used to buy $3,000,000 in Liberty bonds.

McDonald declared he had been informed that Cornell twice tried to hire an Akron gunman to "bump off a husband," first offering $200 for the killing and then $300. In addition, the detective chief said, another attempt had been made to blow up Barnes last July.

This attempt, failed, McDonald said, when motorists stopped Barnes while the latter was driving to tell him of flying sparks from his car. Investigation revealed that a package of dynamite, wrapped in burlap, had been attached to the exhaust pipe of Barnes' automobile.

Barnes was blown forty feet through the coupe of his machine and fatally injured last Tuesday when the automobile was demolished by a terrific explosion.

STAR LORE
By Arthur De V. Carpenter

OUR SOLAR SYSTEM is very remote from any star; there is a vast open void around it. The nearest star is about 272,000 astronomical units distant. An astronomical unit is the mean distance of the earth from the sun. Strictly speaking, it is 92,870,000 miles. If our solar system were as remote as the nearest star, our sun would look like one of the brighter stars, but the most powerful telescope would not make visible any of the planets. Of all the stars beheld by the unaided eye, at least half of them are a hundred times as distant. The largest telescopes pick up stars ten thousand times as remote.

School Principals Meet This Afternoon

Central and No. 5 stations arrived. Smoke filled the rooms of the De-Cerbo home, partly damaging the house before the flames had been quelled. Several rabbits in the De-Cerbo garden adjoining the stables were found dead.

Fireman Zeiler had two fingers badly burned while trying to free one of the impounded horses.

Time Is Lost
Fire officials believe much time was lost before the fire was reported to headquarters. Henry Budzowski one of the owners of the New Model Baking Company, 101 West Long avenue, told Fire Chief Lynn that fire was discovered at 5:45 p. m. Records show that the alarm was received at 6:20 p. m., 35 minutes later.

Considerable time was lost when a pedestrian, Ralph Frenzel, 201 West Washburn avenue, Mahoningtown, attempted to send an alarm from the case of what was formerly Box 57, located at Moravia and West Miller streets. Chief Lynn said the city electrician recently disconnected the mechanism and sent it to be repaired.

Well Organized.
A series of inquiries revealed that Harry F. Sinclair, Robert W. Stewart, Harry M. Blackner and James E. O'Neil organized the concern. It was used to buy 33,333,333 barrels of oil at $1.50 from Col. A. E. Humphreys, Texas oil man, the oil being immediately sold to the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company and the Prairie Oil & Gas company at $1.75 a barrel. The profits were used to buy $3,000,000 in Liberty bonds.

policy on Barnes' life by signing her husband's name to the application. "The investigation so far finds Mrs. Barnes unemotional and dry-eyed," McDonald said. "Cornell is craftily weighing his words to avoid saying anything incriminating."

McDonald declared he had been informed that Cornell twice tried to hire an Akron gunman to "bump off a husband," first offering $200 for the killing and then $300. In addition, the detective chief said, another attempt had been made to blow up Barnes last July.

This attempt, failed, McDonald said, when motorists stopped Barnes while the latter was driving to tell him of flying sparks from his car. Investigation revealed that a package of dynamite, wrapped in burlap, had been attached to the exhaust pipe of Barnes' automobile.

Barnes was blown forty feet through the coupe of his machine and fatally injured last Tuesday when the automobile was demolished by a terrific explosion.

AUTO SMASHUP PASSES QUIETLY

No Police Action

Hollywood police are still in ignorance of an automobile crash which happened on one of its main boulevards recently. No report was ever made of the accident in which a speeding motorcycle hurtled into a skidding automobile.

This particular accident was planned, rehearsed up to the point of the actual crash, and then carried out for a scene in Paramount's new melodrama, "Manslaughter," the Penn theatre feature for all this week.

A sharp curve, ending a long straightaway stretch, was chosen as the site of the accident. Ten cameras were lined up to cover every foot of the road where the crash was to occur, and microphones were so placed that they could record the sound of the impact.

Pursued by a motorcycle, the automobile hummed down the straightaway at a fast pace. There was a screech of brakes, and the car skidded around the curve, swinging outside across the road. A split second later the motorcycle crashed full into it. But a battered car and a demolished motorcycle were the only casualties.

Four Horses That Died Were Among Few Surviving In City

Drivers on the delivery routes of the New Model Bakery Company, whose Moravia street stables were nearly leveled by a mysterious blaze in which three horses died and a fourth was fatally burned with testimony to the high quality of the lost animals.

Aged between six and eight years each of the four was worth at least $250, according to Henry Budzowski, one of the bakery company owners. Their value was doubled to the owners after years on the city streets had trained the animals to the delivery routes.

The stiff bodies found on the stable floors by rescuing firemen made a sight of horror. Chief Lynn appraised their value at $1,200 and said they had been splendid examples of surviving work horses in this city.

Fireman Zeitler was pulling on the halter of one of the five imprisoned horses and had nearly succeeded in dragging it to the entrance when the animal went down and he was compelled to let it go due to thick smoke that blanketed the dark interior.

SEEK CHECK ARTIST

Police are looking today for a fast working check writer who bought a pair of overalls and cashed a forged $34 check at the store of Smith & Black Friday afternoon.

The check was forged on H. S. Filson. It was made out in favor of William Johnson, who informed H. A. Black that he was employed by Filson as a painter. As he wore a pair of overalls on which was plenty of paint, his story was believed and the check was cashed. Later investigation proved it to be a forgery.

WILL UNCLE BIM MARRY WIDOW?

The Widow Zander will fall head over heels in love with Carlos and the two of them scoot off and get married and Mary Gold turns up and marries Tom Carr!

C. W. Stoner, of an East Side Store—"Well, it seems to me that Bim will recognize the good qualities in poor old Tilda the maid and elope. She is a good cook and that is more than anyone can say for the Widow."

Miss Elsie Gold, beautician—"I haven't yet decided about it all. The wedding date approaches so fast. No, I don't believe that the fact that Widow Zander wears a transformation would make any difference in Bim's love for his Heaven Eyes."

Attorney Charles G. Martin—"Of course those two not wits won't get married."

Mrs. Goldie Maybray, Morton street—"Carlos will pop up any time now and spill the soup about the Widow's hazy past and about her inheritance of the fortune that never existed and about the 400 per cent she has been paying to Scooge. When Bim hears that he will certainly lock the piano from whence was to come the wedding march."

Mrs. Mary Lewis, of Youngstown, visiting here says that Scooge is in love with the Widow Zander, that Scooge has the Great Mogul diamond and when the Widow learns that he has the diamond she will straight away marry him. Then everybody would be happy.

Miss Angie Colnot, clerk—"Oh dear, I am sure I don't know what will happen to stop the wedding but I hardly think that good man will be allowed to marry that woman. Someone ought to speak to Sydney Smith about it."

Ralph Reed, advertising man, Howard McLure, sporting goods dealer, Frank Conen, game warden—three emphatic NOs.

And so there it stands. And there seems to be nothing to do about it but wait. The verdict will be announced Wednesday. Mrs. Katherine John, of Wilson avenue says that the wedding will probably be postponed until Uncle Bim can locate his diamond.

But everyone hopes it won't be postponed. That would be too much on the already heavily palpitating hearts!

claims that several strips of land have been taken, that the road has been widened from 33 to 60 feet, that the water in his well has been made muddy and that some fruit trees were taken. He places his damage at $3,-

Warning Is Issued On Check Passer

Is Unsuccessful In Incident Reported To The Local Police Department

Warning was issued today by the city police department for business and professional people of the city to be on the lookout for a man, who is believed to be trying the old racket of presenting a check in payment for goods or work and securing some change. The check in these cases are always of no value. Chief Horner urges that all people be sure that they are right before cashing the check of any person with whom they are not acquainted.

In this instance, Dr. William Horner was in his office in the Temple building, when a man came in and made an appointment for some dental work to be done Tuesday. He was informed that a deposit was required and he presented a check for $20 signed S. G. Wilson and wanted $10 change. Dr. Horner declined to cash the check, and the man left.

The man in this instance gave the name of Harry Marlow, 139 Park avenue. Investigation by Dr. Horner revealed the fact that there was nobody of that name residing at that address.
He is described as being 38 years, five feet eight or nine inches in height and weighing about 135 pounds. He has a scar on the left side of his face and was wearing a gray hat and a blue suit.

Opposition Made To Guardianship

Hearing Held By Judge Chambers On Case Of Newport Couple This Morning

Hearing on a petition to have a guardian appointed for Mr. and Mrs.
Sidney Caldwell of Newport was held before Judge James A. Chambers this morning upon a petition presented by a daughter, Mrs. Wilfred M. Wilson, of Neshannock township. It was alleged in the petition that Mr. Caldwell is 83 years of age and Mrs.
Caldwell 79, and that Mr. Caldwell by reason of his advanced age and infirmities is liable to become the victim of designing persons and dissipate his property.

Mr. Caldwell, who is a veteran of the Civil War and receives a pension of $100 per month, also owns his property at Newport. Opposition to the appointment of a guardian was made by Martin Caldwell, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Caldwell. He lives with his parents at present and claimed that they are able to look after their own interests. Mrs. Caldwell testified that she handles the money and occasionally gives her son, Martin, small sums for spending money. She says Martin stays at home at nights, but admitted that he occasionally becomes intoxicated, but does not abuse her or her husband.

Mrs. Caldwell did not think that she needed a guardian and Martin was of the same opinion. Judge Chambers continued the case.

Gotham Declares War On Piercing Whistles, Horns, Noisy Subways

There are two impressions of New York City that every visitor in that great metropolis never fails to get—high buildings and noise.

High buildings, everyone admits, are alright. They are needed and help to make New York the city it is. But the department of health decided that noise was not needed, and last year it appointed a noise abatement commission to make a survey of the noise conditions.

After a scientific and thorough survey, the commission reports the following sources of noise: Traffic transportation, building operation, homes, streets, harbor and river, collections, deliveries and scores of miscellaneous sources.

Noises they attribute to traffic (that is automobiles, trucks, buses and motorcycles) are: The deafening toots of horns, the shrieks of suddenly applied brakes, loud cut-outs, the grinding of gears, defective mufflers that cause war-like back-fire, exhaust whistles, rattling parts, rattling loads, sirens, bells and doorman's whistles.

To transportation methods such as trolley cars, trains, subways and elevated railroads, the commission attributes the following noises: Turning wheels, rattling brakes, rattling wheels, rattling bodies, defective switches, defective joints, wheel impact, piercing whistles, changing bells, stream and other exhausts and shifting cars.

Continually, new buildings are being erected in Gotham, and buildings are being torn down and repairs made on others. All this involves an astounding amount of noise—much of which could be avoided. There are the pneumatic drills and riveters, exhausts from steam and gasoline hoists, shovels. There are pile drivers, compressors and blasting, unloading, loading and shouting.

Plenty of noise comes from the private homes—loud speakers, pianos, phonographs, musical instruments, late parties and barking dogs. And on the streets noise jumps out from radio and music stores, peddlers do more than their share of the squawking, loiterers are noisy and needless sounds come from garages and taxi stands.

There is no peaceful quiet on the river fronts nor in the harbors. Instead there are whistles—weak little whistles, loud screaming whistles. Little peep-peeps, low moaning whistles. And the bells! Every boat, whether the smallest canoe or the largest liner is equipped with bells. And the harbor is rent by a regiment of bell-boats! Added to these are motor exhausts and horns.

Collections of ashes, garbage, cans, papers involve noise and so do deliveries of milk, papers, food, mail and express.

Airplanes, factories, restaurants and amusement halls make known their presence by roaring engines, grinding machinery, clattering dishes and nerve wracking trombones.

The noise abatement commission, after a study of data so far made available through research, declared that the continual pressure of sound tends to produce impairment of hearing, to induce harmful strains upon the nervous system leading to neurasthenic and psychasthenic states to cause loss of efficiency of workers and thinkers and finally to interfere so gravely with sound, refreshing sleep that rest is difficult and in some cases impossible.

New York has declared the war against noise. It will be a fight but if successful the result will more than justify the trouble it will involve, in the opinion of the commission.

Hope Abandoned For Fruit Ship

Fruit Packet North Shore Believed Sunk With All Hands On Board

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—All hope of finding the fruit packet North Shore, which has been missing with all on board since the recent storm swept Lake Michigan, was abandoned today after a search by boat and airplane failed to locate the ship.

That the freighter sank thirty miles off Racine, Wis., was the opinion of Capt. W. E. Preston of the Grand Haven, Mich., coast guard station at the conclusion of a two day search. Captain Preston reported sighting wreckage yesterday which he identified as part of the North Shore. No bodies were recovered.

Six persons were aboard the fruit packet when it set out from the Michigan shore with a load of grapes.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Peter's Adventures

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

"MAKE WAY FOR THE QUEEN!"

"Where!" Peter mopped his brow. "There's one good job done, and I'm not sorry. I've heard it said it isn't pretty hard to walk on eggs, but I don't believe it is much more difficult than carrying eggs in and out of Ant-Hills. By the way, Busy, what possesses you to scamp in and leave me outside the nursery door. Did you want to find out whether Sentry was on her job or did you think to have a little fun with me?"

"The very idea! I never thought of such a thing!" Busy was indignant. "I wanted to lay down my burdens, just the same as you did. Besides, I never dreamed you'd have any trouble with Sentry. She's rather a good-natured sort when you really know her."

"What is she when you don't?" began Peter, thinking to tease Busy a bit. But Busy didn't answer. Instead, she cocked her head on one side. Busy was listening.

"What's up now?" demanded Peter. Busy opened her mouth to speak, but a loud voice answered for her. "Make way for the Queen!" it cried. "Make way for the Queen!"

Suddenly the nursery was filled with ants, and more ants were entering from the gallery door. At the head of the crowd was the largest ant Peter yet had seen. This large ant was the Queen. Peter needed only one guess to tell him that. He knew by the crown on her head. However, there was no throne waiting for this Queen as there had been in the Beehive. Nor did the big ant seem to expect to sit down. Instead she walked back and forth, back and forth, from one side of the room to another, her crown tipped to one side of her head.

Questions On Vote Machines Answered For Fall Election

Operation, Advantages And Extent Of Use Covered By Series Of Questions

In connection with the submission of the voting machine question at the general election in Lawrence county this fall several questions relating to the operation, advantages and extent of use of the machine have been raised.

Some of the questions asked and their answers are given as follows:

Q. Is the voting machine a new idea?

A. The voting machine is not a recent invention, and its use is not a new idea. Voting machines have been in successful use in general, primary, and special elections for over thirty years.

Q. How long does it take to vote on the voting machine?

A. The average length of time for voting is less than a minute.

Q. Is it possible to ascertain how any voter is marking, or has marked, his ballot?

A. Before it is possible to cast a ballot on the voting machine the curtain must be completely closed around the voter by the operation of the curtain lever. When this lever is returned, to register the vote and open the curtain, the pointers are returned to their unvoiced position, before the curtain starts to open, thus making it impossible for any one to see how the voter has voted. The votes are recorded on counters which are concealed from view until the close of the polls. When the counter compartment is opened after the election, no vote can be distinguished from any other, of course, since only the totals are shown.

Q. Are the election returns quickly available with the voting machine?

A. The returns are available immediately after the election, when it has been conducted with the voting machine, and can be made ready for publication within a few minutes after the close of the polls, since the results are all tabulated, and all that it is necessary for the election officials to do is to read off and transcribe the totals.

Q. How long will the machine last?

A. The machine is sturdily constructed of the best material available. Every part is carefully designed to eliminate mechanical defects and to assure satisfactory operation at all times. Some machines have been in use twenty-five and thirty years.

Q. How can the voting machine be paid for?

A. Payment can be made out of current funds, by a bond issue, or on the deferred payment, or "pay as you save" plan.

Q. Is the voting machine in use very extensively?

A. Over 18,000 are in use annually in 2000 cities, towns and villages throughout the United States. Eighty per cent of the communities in New York State conduct their elections on the voting machine.

Some of the principal large cities using the voting machine are New York City, Albany, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo, New York; Hartford and New Haven, Connecticut; Des Moines and Davenport, Iowa; Indianapolis, South Bend and Gary, Indiana; Grand Rapids and Lansing, Michigan; Seattle and Tacoma, Washington; San Francisco and Los Angeles, California; Milwaukee, Fond du Lac and Oshkosh, Wisconsin; Baltimore, Maryland; Philadelphia, Scranton, Erie, Lancaster, Wilkes-Barre, Hazleton, Warren, Sharon, Pottsville, DuBois, Pottsville, Harrisburg, and other cities.

Find Rembrandt Lost For 200 Years

(International News Service)
LONDON, Sept. 29.—One of the most remarkable and valuable finds of the century has been made by the Irish art connoisseur, H. Sinclair. It is what is said to be an authentic Rembrandt picture bearing the signature of the great Dutch artist and it has been lost to the world for over two hundred years.

Unrecognized and unnoticed the picture has been hanging in an old Irish mansion and is in fact a portrait of the artist's wife Saskia Van Uylenbergh. During one of his visits to Ireland Sinclair discovered the picture in a country house in Tipperary. He at once recognized it as one of the finest examples of Rembrandt's work.

Leading experts in London and Paris have pronounced the picture as genuine.

Arguments In Dean Case Are Continued

Interpretation As To Exact Meaning Of Will Is The Point Involved

Arguments were to have been heard this morning by Judge James A. Chambers in the contest over the will of the late Mrs. Nellie Dean, but were continued until a later date.

The question involved is the interpretation of the will of Mrs. Dean in which Miss Jane Ligo is made the principal beneficiary. The case was twice tried in the local court, heirs of Mrs. Dean being successful in getting a verdict in the first case, and Jane Ligo in the second. The case was appealed to the supreme court which upheld the second verdict. A judicial interpretation of the meaning of the will was then asked, and it is upon this petition that arguments are to be heard.

Woods & Golder Propose Pouring Concrete In Butler Avenue Today

Councilmen today journeyed to Butler avenue to inspect the grade which had brought protests from one or two property-owners between Raymond street and an alley north City Engineer Frank Miller, assistant Harry Hoskins and Councilman Stanley Treser pronounced the grade correct.

Should the sidewalk be too high for a length of approximately 100 feet the city will lower it. To change the grade would affect the entire cartway, engineers reported.

Woods and Golder propose to start pouring concrete from Washington street, north, on the south side of the cartway today.

Vets To Elect New Commander

Many New Members Expected To Be Taken Into Post
Wednesday Evening

Annual election of officers will be held Wednesday evening by the Harry L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at which time a big attendance of the membership is expected by returning commander, James A. Bell. Nominations were held at the last meeting in September, T. John Stoner, who has been Quartermaster for several years, having been nominated for this important position.

Because of the fact that New Castle is expected to be chosen as the 1931 state convention city, the post expects to build up a big membership during the coming winter, and are already working toward this end.

A special effort has been made to secure new members for obligation on election night, Wednesday, and a big class of candidates is expected present for the occasion.

The McBride Post is one of the largest V. F. W. posts in the state, and it is hoped to make them one of the big three during the coming year. An exceptional gain was noted last year, the post having practically doubled its membership.

The outstanding work of the V. F. W. during the past year, in National legislative circles will be an appeal that World War veterans with Foreign Service cannot overlook, Commander Bell states, the V. F. W. having sponsored the Disability Allowance bill passed by Congress last summer.

Boy Scouts Train Boys For Good Citizenship

TYPICAL SCENE IN A SCOUT MEETING ROOM

A tinkling crash of glass in a jewelry store window, swift young fingers hurriedly snatching rings and watches from smashed showcases—quick flight—the shrill police whistle, and the law takes the trail of the youthful gangsters. Later the scene shifts to the courtroom; the prosecution demanding justice—tearful parents who "didn't know their boys had ever thought of such things." But the law must be served, and grim stone walls close around the boys who thought it would be high adventure to emulate the ideals of Jesse James—the hero of their cheap and trashy novels. They didn't mean any wrong—he had done such things—why, not they? They got the adventure they wanted, but it started them on a downward path that is hard to climb back on. Seven-thirty o'clock in a Legion meeting room (or in a church, a school, or a dozen such places) and a group of lively, keen-eyed boys are playing games, blowing off steam and having a good time generally. But another kind of a whistle note cuts the din, and as if by magic the boys fall into patrol formation and absolute silence reigns. The scoutmaster's voice:—"Troop, the pledge to the Flag!"

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands;—one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all." "Patrol leaders, report!" The Owls are planning a nature study hike for Saturday afternoon; the Eagles are going out on a map-making hike and the Beavers have a good turn repair job on some of those old chairs. "Leaders, take charge of your patrols for patrol period!"—and off they go into various corners where they practice first aid, get the signaling code tests perfected, learn Indian Sign talk, try some new knots, or some other of the thousand and one activities in the Boy Scout program. When civic holidays come, or conventions arrive, the Boy Scouts are giving service;—the friends of policemen;—not fugitives from justice sought by the law.

Which do you choose, people of New Castle,—the young gangster group,—or the gang organized and learning worthwhile things? The detection of crime, administration of justice, punishment of criminals and police protection are costing this country sixteen billions of dollars annually. Yet the gangster of today is simply the product of a misdirected, distorted, unsupervised boyhood in the great majority of cases. Not enough boys of yesterday are helping the boys of today be the right kind of men of tomorrow.

The Boy Scout movement is a positive factor in reducing juvenile delinquency in a community. Tests have been made along these lines, and actual figures have been secured by interested ones. More than one record is known in our own council office of boys who, starting the wrong way, have been set right by joining a scout troop, and are today worthwhile young men of the community. Scouting gives the boy the adventure he craves,—but does it under careful adult leadership. The primeval urge of every boy to sleep out away from home some night, is gratified in the overnight hike with the scoutmaster at the wheel of leadership.

Besides the oath and law lived daily by each true scout, the daily good turn is no small factor in the worthwhile contribution of scouting to the communities it serves.

During the past few months in our city alone, hundreds of hours of service have been rendered by local scout troops,—service as guides, orderlies,

College "Frosh" Cavort In Circus Saturday Morn

First-Year Student Put On Show Of Seven Acts
For Upper Classes

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 29.—Westminster College freshman produced an outdoor circus of seven acts for the amusement of upper classmen faculty members, and townspeople on the college field Saturday at 9 o'clock.

Under direction of Robert Cann, Stoneboro, chairman of the sophomore committee, the first-year students assembled at the gymnasium at 9 o'clock, marched around the football field, and then presented seven excellent acts.

There were miniature golf games played with broom sticks and footballs; there were mimic football games played by freshmen men dressed in rompers and baby bonnets; there were freshmen dressed as chorus girls and possessed with an idea they could dance the Highland fling.

An old-fashioned picnic party, with a dilapidated car loaded down with freshmen co-eds dressed in overalls and clothes of the vintage of 1900, was another riot. The carload of picnickers lost the trunk containing pots and pans, and a young lady dressed as a grandmother had considerable trouble with her children on the way to the picnic.

Freshmen men dressed in baby clothes and hip boots, and chewing cut plug or old stogies, were wheeled around in baby carriages to the amusement of other freshmen and the audience assembled on the football bleachers.

A kazoo band of girls from one of the freshmen dormitories played a number of popular hits, including, of course, the "Stein Song." Two colored singers added to the band group.

Following the presentation of the acts by the various groups, the freshmen gathered in the middle of the field in traditional manner and sang the Westminster hymn.

At this point the men of the class were told to remain, and when spectators and freshmen co-eds had left the field, the freshmen men raked the gridiron, removed many stones and sticks, and otherwise made the playing field ready for the game Saturday afternoon.

Freshman rules went into effect Saturday afternoon. The freshmen circus or stunt day was the start of activities in the direction of showing the yearlings their proper place in the campus.

102RD U. S. CAVALRY
OF NEW CASTLE

Information on the appointment of enlisted men from the National Guard to the United States Military Academy has been received at the army from the adjutant general's office.

Under the regulations for the selection of enlisted men there has been allotted to the governor of Pennsylvania the selection of five candidates from the enlisted men of the Pennsylvania National Guard.

To be eligible for appointment the applicant must be an enlisted man of a unit recognized by the Federal government. He must on the date of admission, July 1, 1931, have served as an enlisted man not less than one year, must be between the ages of 19 and 22 years, and must be not less than five feet, four inches in height. The age and service requirements are statutory and cannot be waived or modified, but it is not essential that the service be continuous, so that former service in the National Guard may be counted in determining the applicant's eligibility.

Selection will be made according to the order of merit established in a preliminary examination to be conducted for the adjutant general by the Superintendent of Public Instruction of the state, which will be held in the House of Representatives, Harrisburg, on November 13 and 14 at 9 a. m.

There is no limitation to the number who may compete in the preliminary examination, and it is suggested that this matter be invited to the attention of all concerned, so that every enlisted man who is eligible as to age, education, and length of service may be afforded an opportunity to take the examination.

The candidates so selected will be authorized by the War Department to report for the regular entrance examination, which is scheduled to be held beginning March 3, 1931 and the appointments will be available on July 1, 1931.

The preliminary examination, it has been learned, will include subjects as follows:

Algebra, to include quadratic equations.

Plane geometry.

English grammar, composition, literature.

History, (U. S. and general).

Current events.

Enlisted men who desire to compete in the preliminary examination will forward their applications, approved by their commanding officers, so as to reach the Adjutant General, State Capitol, Harrisburg, Pa., not later than November 6, 1930.

Applications must state the following:

Name in full.

Grade.

Designation of organization.

Date of current enlistment.

Prior service (state if none).

Permanent post office address.

Educational qualifications.

The base pay of enlisted men ranges from $21 to $126 a month.

Perry Highway On North To Be Boon To Motorists Traveling Here To Erie

Just as the Perry highway shortens greatly the distance between New Castle and Pittsburgh, so will its completion on the northern end make the route from New Castle to Erie a better one, and will probably enable motorists to cover the distance in a much shorter time.

Work is now being done on extending the Perry highway from Mercer to Shesapeake and thence on to Meadville. When the work is completed, motorists from New Castle will be able to go to Erie by way of Harlansburg, to Mercer, to Shesapeake, to Meadville, to Cambridge and Edinboro.

At the present time, the most generally used route to Erie is by way of Greenville and Conneaut. Some local motorists have tried the road from Harlansburg to Mercer and from there to Sandy Lake, Conneaut and hence to Meadville. This route is paved all the way, and makes an interesting journey.

If the short strip of road between Cambridge Springs and Union City was paved, the Perry highway would enable tourists to make the trip from New Castle to Buffalo, N. Y. in a shorter time than at the present. Erie traffic would be avoided entirely, the motorists going from Union City.

Swiftest, Easiest Way to End Bilious Spell

When you neglect those first symptoms of constipation—bad breath, coated tongue, listlessness, the whole system soon suffers. Appetite lags. Digestion slows up. You become headachy, dizzy, bilious.

It's easy to correct sluggish bowel action! Take a candy Cascaret tonight. See how quickly—and pleasantly—the bowels are activated. All the souring waste is gently propelled from the system. Regular and complete bowel action is restored.

Cascarets are made from pure cascara, a substance which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. All drug stores have Cascarets. 10c

Old Letter Reveals Newspaper Struggle In Van Buren's Day

Missive Solicits Aid For "Free Soil" Sheet Which Comes Out For Van Buren

A newspaper's struggle in the days when "free soilers" were boosting Van Buren for president was revealed this week with the discovery of an 82-year-old letter in an old book by George W. Harper, city fireman.

The letter, written by L. K. Rosa of Painesville, O., to an uncle whose name and address are not known, lamented the loss of subscribers by the Telegraph and urged the relative to extend aid.

The letter follows:
"Painesville, Aug. 17, '48.

"Dear Uncle:—
"Feeling assured that you are a friend of 'Free Soil' and of its candidate, and consequently a willing supporter of its defenders, who are persecuted, I address you these few lines. With these few remarks for an excuse for trespassing on your time and patience, I come to the desired point.

"H. O. Gray, the editor of the Telegraph, has hoisted the name of Van Buren for the presidency, and in doing so has gained the displeasure of a few, who are not willing to allow any man the privilege of thinking and acting as his judgment dictates. These men have discontinued the paper which takes off from his subscription list some 20, and the report is that about 50 from Madison are going to 'follow suit.'

"Now you are aware that a number of that amount will come very heavy on the paper and if something is not done by our friends, it will fail. The citizens of this place are doing all they can to support it. Some of them are taking two copies and sending them to distant friends. My desire is that you, if convenient, would get as many subscribers as you can—draw up a paper and circulate it among the friends in your place, and send it to me as soon as possible. If your time will not allow, obtain some friend to do it. The terms for the paper are $1.50 in advance and $2 at the end of the year. You will confer a very great favor on the friends of 'Free Soil' by as many subscribers as possible.

"The paper ought to be supported, if for nothing more than its independence in coming out in view of all the threats which had been thrown out by those who supposed they had complete control over the destiny of the paper. The paper shall be supported, even if it is done by a few of this place—for such is the determination on the part of some, and no few can controvert their resolution. If you will assure this as soon as convenient, inform me of the prospects, you will oblige.

"L. K. ROSA.
"P. S.—We are all well. My respects to all friends. Write as soon as convenient.
"LEM."

George Cooper Recalls Installing First "Ball Player" In New York

Erection of the base ball player for the world series in front of The News Office today, developed a little reminiscence on the part of George L. Cooper, of Edgewood avenue.

For years Mr. Cooper was executive head of the editorial force of the New York Herald, in New York City.

It was his newspaper that put up the first mechanical ball player for presenting the world series games in New York.

"The first year we put up that ball player on the Broadway side of the Herald office the crowd was immense. Thousands packed the space around the building, and it took 184 traffic officers to keep a lane open through Broadway, so that traffic was not entirely stopped," Mr. Cooper recalled.

"Store entrances in the vicinity of The Herald office were completely blocked, and we finally had to quit using the board a few years later because of injunctions secured against blocking the store entries," Mr. Cooper related.

"At the same time we first started using the board, the window curtains were kept shut in the press rooms of the Herald, and toward the latter part of the game the score was held back from the crowd somewhat, so that the papers were coming from the office at the same time that the final score was given to the crowd in the streets at the board. Such conditions couldn't prevail today, however, because of the radio and I doubt if ever there would be any crowd at a score board in New York that would equal in interest the initial venture of the New York Herald in this enterprise."

After several weeks of rehearsals, with the various units of the play being rehearsed at separate times, the entire cast of "Odds" will go through their paces tonight when the dress rehearsal for the show will take place. The reason for a dress rehearsal tonight is the fact that Tuesday evening the auditorium is taken with the Sue Harvard recital for the benefit of the Jameson Memorial Hospital and will be unavailable for the rehearsal of "Odds."

"Odds" is a breezy, lilted sort of comedy with plenty of laughs sprinkled through a plot that really has some justification for existence. The scene is set at the estate of Colonel Hartley, an "old southern gentleman" who has a horse "Blackjoy" that seems to be a favorite to win the Lipton Derby.

Nellie Brady, who has been a part of most of the dramatic productions in this city for several years, takes the part of Polly Lee, Peggy's dearest friend, and listen (secret) she is in love with Montcalm Biglow.

Some of the city slickers from "up Nawth" have a horse they are betting on and knowing that Blackjoy has the edge, they shoot the trainer of Blackjoy and kidnap the jockey, Peggy, the daughter rides the horse to a win and all's well that has a good bank account. Blackface impersonation comes difficult for a girl and yet Julia McCoy with the part of Bertha Harrison the daughter of Mammy and Pappy Harrison has shown up splendidly in rehearsal.

Colored Men Engage In Revolver Duel

One Is In The Hospital, While The Police Are Looking For The Other One

Tom Hill and William Gaydon, both colored, on Saturday night about six o'clock, engaged in a revolver duel at and in the vicinity of Mrs. Lee Bolden's, 301 West Bridge street, following an argument, with the result that Gaydon hit Hill in the left leg below the knee with one of his shots and Hill is now in the New Castle hospital. Gaydon is missing, having disappeared following the shooting. The condition of Hill is not serious.

Both had guns and for a time, the only question was which would hit the other or some person in the vicinity. Lieutenant of Police Peter Hillers, Detective C. G. Logan and Officers Dukes, and Lockard answered the call. They found that Gaydon, who is well known in police circles, had waded across the Shenango river, reached Atlantic avenue and had gone to an Elma street residence and when the officers got too close, he disappeared into a hollow in the rear of Greenwood cemetery.

The district was searched thoroughly but without success and Gaydon was still at large today.

Ambassador Morrow Goes To Capitol

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Sept. 29. — Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow arrived in New York today on a private car, but was not accompanied by the Ambassador, who left the train at Harrisburg, Pa., in order to go directly to Washington.

Mrs. Morrow said she was going to her Englewood, N. J., home to join her daughters, Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh and Miss Elizabeth Morrow. She left with friends who met her.

THE ORIGIN OF THE SUN

By F. S. MYERS

"I don't think I have missed any of your articles in The New Castle News. To me they are very interesting. In an article some time ago you made quite plain the latest theory concerning the origin of the solar system. Will you kindly explain the latest theory regarding the origin of the sun?" (M. L. T.)

I am glad you use the word "theory" because established facts are scarce. The most plausible theory is that at one time our sun was only a dark, non luminous nebula spread out in space, such as may be seen to day through a powerful telescope. Some of these dark masses may be seen along the Milky Way with the naked eye on a very clear night when there is no moon.

This nebula consisted of mineral dust, gasses and water in the form of mist. By some means it was set in motion and began to vibrate; vibration generated heat, then light. Then the law of gravitation caused every particle of matter to be attracted toward a common center which caused the great mass to revolve around that center and take the shape of a globe.

Now the only knowledge we have concerning the origin of the matter that formed the nebula we get from the first verse of the first chapter of Genesis, which says: "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth." When that beginning was we do not know, and we cannot go back beyond it.

As to the manner in which the nebula was made to vibrate we must again go back to the first chapter of Genesis, second verse, which says, "And the earth was without form and void, and darkness was upon the face of the deep." That is, our earth as well as the other planets, had not yet been formed. They were merely a part of the great nebula. Then the second verse continues: "And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters." His hand touched matter into vibration (life). "And God said: Let there be light" and there was light. Our sun began to be—at first a fire mist, then a dull red globe, which gradually increased in brightness and condensed through millions of years to its present dimensions with a diameter of 886,500 miles. When that is compared with the diameter of the earth which is only about 8,000 miles we begin to realize how insignificant is this globe on which we live when compared with the sun.

There are many facts which go to prove the foregoing theory. First, the dark nebula throughout space, perhaps waiting to become suns. Second, the great nebula in Orion which has passed from darkness to light and is apparently, well on its way toward condensing into a huge sun, or perhaps a system of suns. Third, Betelgeuse, which is an immense sun, not yet having reached the brightness of Sirius or thousands of other suns in the universe. Thus we can see many instances of what appears to be the works of creation in different stages of evolution throughout space.

As this condensing process continued the seething, boiling fiery mass of the sun threw off matter which in turn condensed into globes forming the planets. These slowly cooled off and began to develop life as set forth in the first chapter of Genesis.

Astronomers have attempted to compute the age of the sun by calculating the amount of radiation thrown off. The mathematics required in doing this would fill a large volume, so we cannot even touch upon it in an article of this kind. Suffice it to say that in using the present amount of radiation as a basis they calculate that back to the time when the sun began to radiate heat and light until the present time would require five thousand million years. And while the sun is losing four million tons of mass a second, it will take one thousand five hundred million years for it to reduce to a point where it will even be noticeable to astronomers living on the earth at that time.

Patterson Presides At City Meeting

President Of New Castle District In Charge Of Convention

In the account of the New Castle District Convention which was held at the First Baptist church last Friday Sept. 26, Saturday's issue should have contained the information that Clarence A. Patterson, President of the New Castle District, presided. Mr. Patterson has been president for the past few years and it was largely due to his efforts that the convention was so successful. This correction is made at the request of the county president whose name appeared in Saturday's issue instead of that of Mr. Patterson.

The Lawrence County Sabbath School Association, in order to give a better knowledge to those not familiar, is divided into eight districts each district having a president and a complete staff of officers similar to that of the county association. In addition to the New Castle District, of which Mr. Patterson is president, there are the following districts and presidents: Wilmington District No. 2, W. M. Armstrong, President; Pulaski District No. 3, George R. Allen, President; Mt. Jackson (formerly Mahoning District No. 4, A. W. Leslie, President; Ellwood District No. 5, La Verne Bender, President; Slippery Rock District No. 6, S. H. Shaw, President; Plain Grove District, No. 7, W. J. Eakin, President; Wampum District No. 8, Paul Coulter, President.

An additional correction to the Convention article is Garth Edmondson, the talented pipe organist of the First Baptist church, was at the organ and rendered a number of beautiful selections.

Chest Campaign Workers To Open Drive Tonight

Will Meet At Y. W. C. A. For Initial Report And Instructions On Campaign

ADVANCE GIFT
WORKERS IN FIELD

General Campaign Will Start Next Monday With Breakfast At Castleton

Workers in the Community Chest campaign, will hold their first general meeting this evening at 7:30 in the Y.
W. C. A. when the opening gun in the campaign will be fired.

All team captains, workers, members of the executive boards of the various agencies and officials of the campaign are requested to attend this meeting when the initial report of the Advanced Gift committee will be made.

Instructions will be given to the workers who are taking part in the campaign, and plans will be made for the opening of the general campaign which will start on Monday, October 6, with a breakfast at the Castleton.

Tonight's meeting will be as brief as possible so that those who have other engagements may get away in good time, and a snappy meeting is expected to result.

Budget Reduced

With this year's goal reduced by $6,- 000, team captains and workers do not expect any great difficulty in attaining their objective of $61,500. This is the lowest sum ever sought for Community Chest work in New Castle and has been made possible by the strictest economy on the part of the participating agencies.

There are only eight agencies affiliated with the New Castle Community Chest. In Sharon, whose community district is practically the same size as New Castle's, there are 21 agencies participating in the Community Chest, and the sum sought this year is $110,376, almost twice the amount asked here.

That the Community Chest idea has proven popular throughout the country is shown by the tremendous growth of this method of financing community welfare work. Ten years ago, there were only a few Community Chests operating throughout the country. Today, there are more than 300 and the number is constantly growing.

The careful supervision that is giving Community Chest funds enables the contributors to save materially on the amount of money they contribute for welfare work.

Locally, the expenditures are kept at a minimum figure by the operation of a Round Table, where each week, those in charge of the administration of relief funds, gather to discuss those who make applications for assistance.
This prevents duplication and enables the agencies to weed out those who are undeserving of aid.

Assistance is grouped into classes, and each agency handles the class assigned to it. The Red Cross takes care of all relief work among ex-service men, while the Salvation Army and Associated Charities, administer relief to all other classes.

The same economies have been affected in the administration of the funds of the other participating agencies, which carry on their work through the Chest.

All these facts will be presented to the team workers at the meeting this evening, and they will be thoroughly conversant with the needs of the Community Chest when they start out on their solicitation work during the coming campaign.

Bridge Bombers Are Being Hunted

Wheeling Police Intercept Plans

Nine Bridges

(International News Service)
WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 29.—
More than 1,000 officers today were combing the Wheeling district for a ring of alleged bombers involved in a plot to blow up nine bridges across the Ohio river.

Plans to destroy the bridges were discovered by police when a note found in a street car detailing the plot was turned over to them.

The bridges across the Ohio between Steubenville and Bellaire were under heavy guard last night to thwart any attempts to bomb them.

Harry Gross of the Gunning block

221 Moody avenue, in his absence, that he, Green, had authorized him to use his car. The car was given to Gross. Mr. Green stated he had located the car in an alley off Spruce street.

He and Officer Charles Augustine rushed to that place in a police car and as they did so they met Green's car coming east on Washington street at Croton avenue. The car was stopped and Harry Gross found in it. In the car was also found the gabardine coat which had been taken from Green's room.

Gross was taken before Alderman

At Coal Mine

(International News Service)
POTTSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 29.—Fire in the Culm bank at the Pine Hill Colliery of the Weston-Dodson coal company at Minersville, near here, was brought under control today after 500 men had battled it for nearly 24 hours.

Mine officials announced that it was expected the blaze would be extinguished this afternoon, and that all danger of coal seams being ignited was past.

A forest fire, started by sparks from the burning Culm bank, also was under control.

Millions of dollars worth of coal deposits were endangered by the blaze, which spread rapidly after being started by a small fire in the colliery fan-house.

Jones Denies He Is Through With Competitive Golf

"I Am Not Through With Competitive Golf" Declares Atlanta Wizard

(International News Service)
ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 29.—"No. I am not through with competitive golf."

Emphatically Bobby Jones, the world's premier golfer, made this declaration to International News Service today spiking once and for all reports that he might "retire" from the game after reaching the topmost pinacle.

"I am a little tired now," he admitted. "The strain has been something terrible. But I'm not through."
"My plans are indefinite. I have no plans for the future except devoting my time to my profession and playing golf occasionally here."

"From now on my main business is law."

"But any report that I'm quitting competitive golf is untrue." Jones made this statement at his home here, a little more than an hour after his return home with his fourth major golf title of the year, the American amateur.

Detroit's First 'Phone Returned To Service

Detroit's first telephone was returned to active service recently in celebration of the fifty-fourth anniversary of the invention of the telephone by Alexander Graham Bell, says the Detroit News.

The first telephone in Detroit was installed in 1877 in the Frederick Stearns drug store. David M. Gray, vice president and secretary of Frederick Stearns and company, talked over the old telephone from the Stearns laboratories on Jefferson avenue with Frederick S. Stearns, chairman of the board, who is in Miami Beach, Fla.

The telephone was originally installed by the first Frederick Stearns, the founder of the present company,
so he could talk with his laboratories at Fifth and Woodbridge street. Mr.
Gray was then a clerk in the drug store. Mr. Gray said that the telephone was one of his brightest memories.

"We had a lot of fun with that
'phone. We put a sign in the window, reading, 'Come in and talk over the amazing new long distance telephone.'
—throw your voice almost two miles.
The people flocked in, but most of them were frankly skeptical. They were sure it was a fake and that the voice they heard through the transmitter was that of someone shouting through a speaking tube from somewhere upstairs. I was in charge of the public demonstration and I had a hard time convincing the Detroiters of 77 that we weren't trying to put one over."

Speaks Of Amish And Mennonites At Rotary Club

Characteristics and customs of the Amish and Mennonite people were brought to light in a most interesting way when the Rev. G. Paul Mussel-man, pastor of the St. James Episcopal church of Downingtown, Pa., addressed the Rotary club today. The meeting took place at the Castleton.

"Our Mennonite Neighbors" was the theme of Rev. Musselman's enlightening discourse. He pointed out that the chief objective of the Mennonite colony was to effect a separation from the world—to establish their own Heavenly colony.

Rev. Musselman explained that certain historians think of the Mennonites and Quakers as one and the same group, but that is wrong. He also corrected another belief that the Mennonites are a Dutch colony declaring they are from German descent.

The history of both the Mennonites and Amish was discussed briefly, and clearly outlined the purposes of the two. For some time the "plain people" studied the two groups, and the statements that he makes bear authority.

Rev. Musselman has appeared before other civic groups of the district during the past few weeks, speaking about a week ago.

Writing From College Is Important Matter

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
A great many thousand young men and women are going to college this year. The first time. Their habits of writing home during their college career will set in the early part of this year. Let one who entered 25 years ago offer such new college students some suggestions.

If, as was true in my case, it means a financial sacrifice to your parents to help you go to college, then you have a peculiar opportunity to prove your sense of obligation by keeping in close touch with them by writing them regularly. Hardly a good reason why you should write home every day, but certainly you will write home once or twice a week. If they expect a letter often, count it no hardship to write more frequently, particularly during the first few weeks. Have a regular time or times for writing each week. Provide enough place in your program so that you can write a letter worthy of your writing and worthy of their reading.

Have more in mind the reader than the writer if you would get and give most happiness. Some college students take great pride in writing letters hardly legible. Dad and mother may not see so well as you; more than eyes are needed to read some letters. When I remember the careless handwriting I employed to write my father and mother I feel somewhat ashamed. More to my shame I used to enjoy hearing them complain about their difficulties in reading my letters, used to think that writing was something to be proud of.

Furthermore, I remember that I used to employ many words telling how busy I was at college. How I enjoyed mother's letter in reply begging me not to work too hard and expressing great anxiety about my health. It was a subtle way I had of telling her how great and important I was. What curious things we do!

Some of you will do likewise, no doubt. Some will get satisfaction out of writing things home to surprise your parents, even to shock them—another curious mode of seeking selfish satisfaction. If you are really seeking ways of bringing happiness to your loved ones, of proving to them your sense of loyalty, your affections, you will try to picture to them your daily experiences about as accurately as possible in a way that they will give a pretty true notion about your college life.

If you are companionable with your parents you will not feel the need of censorship. Rather, you will in your conduct be guided in a great measure by, "Is it what I should want to write home about?" No doubt such standards have had a very wholesome effect in helping many a young man and woman live a fairly decent and useful life. You and I have been far more affected by it than we realize.

Nothing sentimental about this. It's a practical proposition. Every one is seeking happiness and so far as he thinks at all, would like to find a happiness that endures.

We know that some things bring us only temporary satisfactions followed, maybe, by remorse. We have pride in our ability to pilot our own lives. At quiet moments when we measure values carefully and calmly we grow interested in tomorrow, next year, ten years from now. No better goal in life than happiness if we look beyond the here and now.

You wish to cultivate ease and effectiveness of expression, wish to write well. Your letters home, if you do them carefully, afford you a splendid motive. If in them you were to incorporate a few things you have learned in a form in which your parents would enjoy it, a great deal of pleasure would be created for you and for them.

NEW INSTRUCTOR OF ECONOMICS EXPECTED HERE IN NEAR FUTURE

Miss Dorothy Etter, of State College, newly appointed representative of the state home economics department, has not yet taken up her duties in Lawrence County. The exact date when Miss Etter will take up the work here is not known at the agricultural extension association, but it is believed that it will be in the near future. Miss Etter will take the position left open by the resignation of Miss Janice Wrathall.

Dry Spell End Here Finds City Was Not In Shortage Danger

New Castle Has Never Known Water Shortage; Precautions Were Taken In Spell

Rains of the past week ushered in the so-called "wet" season and closed another dry spell in the district. Dry spells in this district again helped to show that never in its history has New Castle known a water shortage.

While cities throughout the country suffered water shortages there was plenty of water in the Shenango river which supplies New Castle with a water supply to meet demands here.

Curtailment of water uses was unknown here during the hot summer. About 6,000,000 gallons of water were used here daily during the dry spell. Edward B. Richards of the city of New Castle Water Company said today. This amount was 1,000,000 gallons more than the normal use. While nearby cities like Pittsburgh curtailed water usage for sprinklers and other uses due to the heavy demand in some districts within the city, New Castle residents were assured throughout the spell that they needn't be afraid of using their garden hose too much. There was a heavy demand for water here, but the mains, which supply water in the city were equipped for the extra supply.

So serious was the state-wide water shortage that special questionnaires were distributed by the Public Service Commission to all water company superintendents in Pennsylvania. The blanks asked what the total daily pumping was, what precautions were being taken against a shortage and any number of similar questions to get an inside picture on conditions in the different localities in the state.

Despite the assurance that water was plentiful in this district the Water Company, it was learned, was prepared to take an emergency step. A sand bag dam could be hurriedly constructed at a narrow point in the Shenango river just below the pumping station. The point could have been dammed up in 10 hours, it is said.

P. R. R. TO PENSION NINETY-SIX OCT. 1

Roger C. Flaherty, engineer of the Indianapolis division, retires with 53 years and 4 months of service to his credit.

No retirements on the Erie and Ashland division are listed this month.

LAKE BLUFF, Ill., Sept. 29.—Two amateurish bandits whose revolvers shook dangerously in their hands made good their escape after a night raid on the William V. Kelley Mansion in which they terrorized the multi-millionaire printing press magnate and his wife and servants and escaped with a lot of $300.

The pair fled in panic when a look-out signaled them as a car wheeled into the Kelley driveway by mistake, then backed out and went away. The timely arrival of the automobile, police believe, interrupted the bandits' well-organized plan to strip the home of silverware, jewelry, tapestries and costly furnishings.

Underfeeding Serious, Says Clendening

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Marasmus or malnutrition in infancy is one of the commonest of human diseases. Indeed it can hardly be called a disease, so many forms does it take, and so gradual are the changes between the different stages. From a baby not gaining at the proper rate or a little below normal in weight, to an inhuman looking skeleton like gnomes, with the skin tightly drawn over its little bones, there is every conceivable transition form.

Dr. McKim Marriott, whom I have used as my guide in preparing the articles this week, gives five causes of malnutrition.

1. Underfeeding.
2. Infection.
3. Constitutional and congenital anomalies.
4. Poor hygiene.
5. Overfeeding.

It is interesting and important to note the stress he puts on underfeeding. Four-fifths of these cases are due not, as is generally thought, to having the wrong kind of food, but simply to having too little.

This may even occur in breast fed children when the mother's milk is insufficient in amount or quality. But much more likely it is to occur in the bottle fed baby. The trouble is usually not so much in the actual amount of milk given as in not furnishing enough food elements to the ounce, or in other words, in giving the baby too dilute a mixture.

When this condition is found it is advisable to give the infant a properly concentrated formula and to keep on giving the same formula until good results begin to appear. The tendency is for the mother to get panicky and keep insisting on changing the formula in the desperate hope that the right one will somehow be hit upon. It often takes two or three weeks for good results to appear. For this reason if a good formula is fixed upon containing all the necessary elements for nutrition, it is better to keep on with that formula. Constant changing is more likely to upset the baby than letting it stay on the same formula.

Infections of any kind upset the digestion and result in loss of weight. The infection may be in the middle ear, the throat or the bowel. For this reason proper examinations of the entire body are always indicated in the presence of undernourished states.

Constitutional conditions such as congenital heart disease may be responsible.

By poor hygiene is meant uncleanness, crowded quarters, bad ventilation, overheated rooms, too little sunshine, etc., etc. The majority of these cases are found among the poor tenement dwellers. Naturally bad hygiene and underfeeding go hand in hand.

Overfeeding is less frequent as a cause of malnutrition than was once supposed. Excess of some one element in the food, such as the fat, will cause digestive disturbances, leading to loss of weight and vitality.

Dear Sir:—

In the Saturday News there appeared an item that Rev. Margaret Joshua was the first ordained woman minister in the state of Pennsylvania to perform a marriage. Mrs. Joshua comes third in New Castle, Pa., and not mentioning the state to the writer's knowledge and understanding.

In fact, Mrs. A. L. John is and was the first lady ordained minister of New Castle and a resident for 24 years. Hoping you will print this in fairness and facts and it must be admitted that the distinction or honor goes to the Spiritualist church.

Completed!

THE WORK of remodeling and returning our mortuary is completed! As many of you know, this work has been in progress for some time, but now, through the untiring efforts of all those engaged in making the changes, plans have been carried to a successful conclusion. We are about to dedicate to the service of New Castle people—and those in neighboring territory—a greatly improved mortuary establishment, a place that will serve as a real temporary home during the final hours.

A number of desirable changes and improvements have been made, and as the mortuary now stands, it is in every way modern and complete—capable of filling virtually every need that might arise before and during a funeral service. We are pleased with what has been done, for in the doing we have realized a rather fond dream: that of making available to all a mortuary establishment in keeping with the highest standards of our profession.

Very soon now, everyone will have an opportunity to see our remodeled and re-furnished mortuary.

Watch for Our Open House Announcement.

Wagner Resigns As Sox Manager

Charles "Heinie" Wagner, Resigns As Manager Of Boston Red Sox

MUDDY RUEL AND McCARTHY IN LINE

(International News Service)
BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Charles "Heinie" Wagner, for the past season manager of the Boston Red Sox, has tendered his resignation to President Bob Quinn, it was announced by officials of the club today.

Wagner took over the reins of the club following the retirement last season of Bill Carrigan, to whom Wagner had been assistant for two years.

The announcement of the resignation of Wagner lent weight to the report current in baseball circles for some time that Harold "Muddy" Ruel, catcher of the Washington Senators, would come to Boston next season to manage the Red Sox.

However, the possibility arose that Joe McCarthy, former manager of the Chicago Cubs, would come here to take Wagner's post. McCarthy resigned after an announcement that Rogers Hornsby would manage the Cubs next season.

Third Church Has Rally Day

Little Folks Present Beautiful Sight In Caps And Gowns
As They Graduate

Sunday was observed as Rally Day at Third United Presbyterian Bible School. Considerable preparation had been made for a record breaking day. The attendance goal being 1,000. Against this goal, 943 persons were in attendance—an inspiring sight, with enthusiastic spirit prevailing in all departments. Both the Men's Bible Class and the young Ladies Bible class came through in excellent form—exceeding their quotas—the Men with an attendance of 137 while the Young Ladies class totaled 107 in attendance.

Following the regular Study period from 9:45 to 10:30—a Rally Day program was conducted in the church auditorium. Among the interesting numbers on the program the graduation exercises for thirty boys and girls going from the Beginners department to the Primary department were very impressive. The children were robed in white gowns and wore white caps to match. They gave a demonstration of their training and were awarded their diplomas. Cradle Roll children of proper age were awarded their certificates promoting them to the Beginners Division. Miss Ruth Moore representing the Junior department—Oliver Theophilus representing the Intermediate department and Miss Annabelle Rogers representing the Young People's Department discussed in a most interesting way the Rally Day topic. The pastor, Rev. S. B. Copeland and members of the Bible school cabinet stressed the Rally efforts and the plans for the winter work.

Music for the occasion was furnished very efficiently by the Junior choir of 45 voices under the direction of Mr. Charles Harris. W. H. Schoenfeld, Special Day Superintendent of the Bible school cabinet was in charge of the day, with Mrs. A. E. Theophilus as chairman of the program committee. Graduation exercises were under direction of Mrs. J. E. Gorman, superintendent of Beginners division. To these and other members of the various committees can be attributed the success of the day.

"BEAUTIFUL JOE" AUTHOR LOVES BIRDS, TOADS

Almost every one has read the story of "Beautiful Joe," the classic tale of a dog as told by himself. It was written in 1894 by Miss Margaret Marshall Saunders who now lives in Toronto, Canada. Miss Saunders, who has written many other stories, still loves dogs and is pictured with her little dog, Fiji, named for some fraternity boys at the University of Maine. She also maintains a sanctuary for birds and a most unique "toad hotel," which gives shelter to some toads who, in return, keep Miss Saunders' garden free from insects.

YOUTH NOT YET TAKEN BY POSSE IN STATE FORESTS

search to include the mountain fastnesses near Jersey Shore, about 35 miles from here, where Skidmore was believed to have been seen early yesterday.

Fired Rifle

In a railroad box car in a siding at Jersey Shore was found a blood stained rifle believed to have been used by the fleeing youth in his mountaineering battle with Olmes and Fox. A trainman told police of a haggard, unshaven youth who approached him and asked:

"For God's sake, how can I get a trolley out of this town?"

Around the boy's left knee was wrapped a bloodstained and grimy handkerchief, the trainman said. Skidmore and Dutton had been hiding in the lonely cabin on the rocky slopes of Rattlesnake Mountain for a week, police believe. Their escape from the Pittsburgh district immediately following the holdup in which Hammond was killed climaxed rapid-fire developments in Pittsburgh when Eugene Batdorf, 20, third member of the bandit trio broke down and confessed, implicating Skidmore as the "trigger man" in the holdup.

Meanwhile, Dutton was held in the Centre County jail here together with Leonard Skidmore, brother of the fleeing youth and a student at Bellefonte Academy. Skidmore's "kid brother" police charge, furnished the youthful bandit with provisions during his hideout here.

Dutton, emulating Batdorf, is alleged to have "squealed" in regard to the killing of Hammond and also to have placed blame for the murder on Skidmore.

Ask Other States Aid

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 29.—Canadian and New York state authorities today were asked to lend their aid in the search for George C. Skidmore, wanted for the murder of a gasoline station attendant during a holdup. City detectives returned here this morning with William Dutton, 25, and Leonard Skidmore, the wanted man's brother, and held the pair incommunicado. Both had been taken into custody near Bellefonte, in Centre county.

Dutton was said to have been an accomplice of Skidmore's in the gasoline station holdup and Leonard Skidmore was charged with having taken provisions to his brother who was hiding out in the Centre County mountains.

The detectives who returned with Dutton and the younger Skidmore said that George Skidmore, in addition to wounding private J. G. Olmes of the state highway patrol and William Fox, beacon custodian at Rattlesnake Mountain, also had slightly wounded Sergeant W. C. A. Bear and Corporal C. I. Gross, state highway patrolmen, when the men drove into an ambush on Rattlesnake road on the side of the mountain.

Although the manhunt for Skidmore was in full cry today, the detectives expressed the belief that the youth had made good his escape to New York state or Canada. Dutton and Leonard Skidmore appeared little worried today over their plight. Young Skidmore smiled his approval when told that his brother probably had broken through a surrounding posse and gained his liberty temporarily at least.

PITTSBURGH MOTOR CLUB PAYS REWARD

was endeavoring to get the proper name of the club making the offer of reward. Mr. Ferguson said he knew the man who could get it straightened out and introduced Mr. McCullough to C. V. Shoup, secretary of the Allied Boards of Trade in Pittsburgh, who is well known here. Mr. Shoup said that the offer came from the Pittsburgh Motor Club and immediately got in touch with C. H. Roth, secretary of the club.

Getting the check, Mr. Shoup made a trip to New Castle and delivered it to Mr. Rentz. This brings the total money on hand to be paid out as reward, to $2700.00, the other $500.00 being the offer of the Keystone Automobile Club of Philadelphia.

The action of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, the largest motor club in Western Pennsylvania is a most commendable one. When Corporal Brady Paul was murdered on December 27, 1929, the directors of the club met and offered $200.00 reward for the capture of the murderers. This offer was one of the first made.

Commissioners To Decide

The offer was not one to which the Pittsburgh Motor Club attached any strings. The directors of the club were interested in apprehending the murderers of a public servant and said that they wanted the county commissioners to decide where the reward went.

After the conviction of Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague, the Pittsburgh Motor Club, through its president, John M. Rice, and the secretary, C. H. Roth, awaited word as to when they should pay the money. Unfortunately the commissioners had the name of the wrong club. Just as soon as Mr. McCullough was introduced to the proper officers, by Mr. Shoup, the check was put through speedily and is now in the possession of the county commissioners.

It will be added to other reward money and when the check of the Keystone Automobile Club is received, the entire $3200.00 will be forwarded to Sheriff Charles Wright of Phoenix, Arizona, and he in turn will divide it among Leon Sundust, the Indian Hance Coor, Oscar Roberts and Bob Carter, deputies who actually participated in the capture of the murderers.

WESTMINSTER DEFEATS EDINBORO TEACHERS 19-12

BY RUBE GOLDBERG

WESTMINSTER COLLEGE GRID TEAM OPENS 1930 SEASON WITH VICTORY

Glenn Shaffer Takes Spotlight With Pair Of Touchdowns In Opening Game

Westminster's Line Plays Great Defensive Game — Teachers Fight Hard But Are Light

Using practically nothing but straight football, or in the vernacular "under wraps" a fighting Westminster football team gained a 19 to 12 victory over Edinboro Teachers' College at New Wilmington Saturday afternoon. It was the opening game of the year. A crowd estimated at about 1,500 witnessed the battle.

The 1930 edition Westminster grid team served notice to the Tri-State district that they must be reckoned with. Presenting a team composed of six freshmen and five veterans, the Beede coached machine clicked very smoothly. The Westminster linemen performed in brilliant fashion. So brilliant in fact that Edinboro only gained five downs. The total first and tens for Westminster read twenty when the game terminated.

Shaffer Stars — Glenn Shaffer, former New Castle High and Princeton, Illinois grid star took the spotlight as Westminster chalked up the first game on the right side of the ledger. Shaffer scored a pair of touchdowns and otherwise played a bangup defensive game. The Shaffer to Michaels and Michaels to Shaffer passing combination is going to be heard from plenty this year. They completed a good number of passes Saturday for quite a few yards. To be exact Westminster hurled fifteen passes and completed eight of them. Edinboro tried five passes and made good two of them. Along with Shaffer, those freshmen linemen, Elmer Meider and Kozicki played good football. Charles Myler of New Castle broke into the game at end replacing Tweedy late in the fourth quarter.

Things looked none to rosy for the Titans in the first few minutes of play when "Lady Luck" looked down upon a favorable smile on the Edinboro team. Anderson of Edinboro had kicked off to Michaels. Westminster tried two plays. Michaels kicked or attempted to kick and Duff of Edinboro broke through and blocked the punt. The ball rolled back over the goal-line from the 12 yard line where the kick was tried and Duff fell on it for a touchdown. Anderson failed to kick the extra-point.

After that "lucky" touchdown, the teams battled about evenly in mid-field with neither side being able to gain ground in consistent fashion. It was really a kicking duel with Michaels and Anderson holding the spotlight.

Elmer Meider supplied a few thrills for the fans in the first quarter with some nice end-around plays that netted quite a few yards of gain. In fact Meider was the only Westminster back able to gain through the Edinboro team in the first quarter. Walter Kozicki, Harrisburg boy, playing a tackle was injured and replaced by Armour. Edinboro had the ball on the own 23 yard line when the quarter ended.

Titans Open Up — Soon after the second quarter started Westminster began perking up somewhat. Haldy went to halfback replacing Hamas, and things started to click. Meider carried the ball a few times for nice gains through tackle and around the end. Haldy made a first down for Westminster on the 20 yard line. Haldy went to the 10 yard line for another first down. Perrin picked up four yards and on the next play Meider was over the line for the first Westminster touchdown. Haldy failed to plunge the ball over for the extra-point. Westminster 6—Edinboro 0.

Westminster gained the ball again soon after the kickoff when Anderson was forced to punt. The Titans opened up with a forward passing attack that left nothing to be desired in the way of effectiveness. Michaels slipped one to Tweedy for a 13 yard gain to the 40 yard line. Meider took the ball again and pushed his way through the line for 12 yards, and a first down. Perrin and Haldy carried the ball on two plays and gained about 6 yards. Shaffer was given the ball on the half-foot line and scooted over the final barrier for the second Westminster touchdown. Michaels kicked the extra-point by placement. Westminster 13—Edinboro 6.

Line Proves Strong — Edinboro had the ball on their own 20 yard line when the first half ended. Westminster clearly outplayed the teachers in the second quarter and it was a grand comeback after that listless first quarter. Westminster's powerful line comes in for their share of praise in the strong defense that they put up. Almost every effort of the Teachers to puncture the forward wall met with iron resistance. The Titan backfield was just a bit shaky in the first half, but they later made up for it. Edinboro put up a good battle in the first two periods for a light team. Anderson, Arrowsmith and Duff stood out prominently.

On the kickoff of the second half, or third quarter, Elmer Meider took the ball again and was hurt when he stepped in a hole on the field and he was replaced by Cebula. Meider's absence hurt the Titans, the Pittsburgh Schenley High boy playing a great game while he was in there. It was another kicking duel in the second half with Edinboro kicking off and Westminster losing the ball on fumble, then taking it again on a kick only to lose it on downs etc. Westminster was in scoring position soon after the third quarter started, but the Edinboro line held for downs on the 5 yard line and Anderson kicked to Michaels out of danger. The Westminster team took the ball on the 25 yard line and started another parade to the goal.

Forward Passes Work — Shaffer hurled a pretty pass to Michaels and made it first and ten on the 15 yard line. Michaels threw a pass to Shaffer good for three yards and the ball was on the 8 yard line. Shaffer scored a touchdown after catching a pass from Michaels when he took the ball again on an exchange of punts and then when the going got tough Michaels punted to out of bounds on the Edinboro 30 yard line. Arrowsmith carried the ball through the center of the line for a first down on the 40 yard line. Rooney heaved a long pass to Anderson and the latter Edinboro back took the ball and ran through a broken field 28 yards for the touchdown. It was beautifully executed pass and was one of 13 yards in length. The try for extra-point was blocked by Fuller of the Titans.

Edinboro had the ball on the 43 yard line when the game ended, having received it from Shaffer fumbled. Need Little Polishing — It was a good opening battle for the Titans, and gave them a severe test. Coach Beede was pleased with the victory, but will have to do a lot of smoothing out before the W. and J. game. The Westminster line needs a little polishing. The offensive drive of the Titans is good but can be improved upon. Definitely the Westminster team played up to standard.

Edinboro will make the smaller schools in this section sit up and take notice. Coach "Sax" Harrison has a smooth working outfit very light, but fighters, as attested to by their showing against Westminster.

Few Surprises In Results Of Saturday Games

Heavy Scores In Opener Feature Of Many Clashes

GROVE CITY WINS; GENEVA DEFEATED

Football got under way in a serious fashion Saturday afternoon when practically every college in the county seeing what its gladiators had to offer. The time for guessing was over, and the promises of the coaches were trotted out. In some few instances the teams got under way Friday night, but the real opener was Saturday.

For most of the important teams the first game of the season is just a practice session and the scores turned in show that the first tilt was scheduled with an eye to nothing more than a canter for the boys.

Pitt Gallops In — Pitt played every man on the squad against Waynesburg and had no difficulty in their 52-0 win. Carnegie Tech also picked out a soft one to open the season defeating the University of Buffalo 75-0. W. & J. didn't do right by dear old Bethany hanging a 74-0 licking onto the Christians, and Grove City ran hog wild against Morris-Harvey, wherever that is, winning 90-0. Geneva bowed to Bucknell 46-6.

Westminster was one team that picked out a reasonably strong opponent for the opening game, taking on the strong Edinboro State Teachers College team. Westminster won by a score of 19-12, but the showing of Edinboro indicates that Slippery Rock and West Chester have a rival this year to be reckoned with.

Penn State opened in a rather unimpressive manner against Niagara winning but only by a 31-14 score. Yale gave Maine its annual drubbing, 35-0. New York U defeated Hobart 38-0, and Army scored 39 against Boston U's nothing.

Tuss McLaughry's Brown team had a tussle against Rhode Island State, losing out a 7-0 win, and dying for dear old Rutgers seemed to carry no special merit Saturday. Providence defeating their 12-0. Cornell had a basket picnic against Clarkson, 66-0. Lafayette had plenty of trouble against the tough St. Thomas aggregation winning by 7-0. Columbia beat Middlebury 48-0. Dartmouth smothered Norwich 79-0, and Colgate hung up a 38 win over St. Lawrence.

Out where men are men and all that sort of thing, Michigan piled up 33 points against Dennison's nothing. Minnesota defeated South Dakota 48-0. Ohio State had a practice heat against Union 59-0. Iowa seemed to have a struggle against Bradley 38-12. Oberlin defeated Kenyon 25-7. In the far west Washington defeated Willamette 48-0. Stanford took the strong Olympic team out of the picture for the year with an 18-0 licking, and Utah defeated Nevada 20-7.

Three Westminster Players Are Hurt

Blue And White To Have Patched Up Lineup Against W. & J.

(Special To The News) NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 29. —Three members of the Westminster College football team who started against Edinboro Teachers College Saturday have been lost to the team through injury, it became known today. None of the men will be available for use for at least two weeks. Trainer Jack Holmes announced. These men are Elmer Meider, Pittsburgh lad who played a good game at end, scoring one touchdown before being removed from the game; Walter Kozicki, Yaegerstown, giant tackle; and James Perrin, Avelia flash, full-back.

Marcellas Hand Oakland Defeat

The summary of the game follows: Marcella 20 — Oakland A. A. 0 Pascarella L. E. Dudak

Bessemer Defeats Lowellville 13-0

Stanley Scores Touchdowns In First And Last Quarters

COACH IS PLEASED WITH HIS ELEVEN

Bessemer high school, winners of the Class B school trophy last season got away to a good start Saturday at Bessemer when they defeated Lowellville High 13 to 0. Bessemer scored their points in the first and last quarters. Lowellville was held to four first downs.

Stanley, Grist, Purovaki and Standish played good for Bessemer and Bessemer would have chalked up a bigger score had it not been for McGarvey, Cunningham, Melillo and Travelino of Lowellville. The latter was a tower of strength to Lowellville which was on the defense most of the time.

The game was played on Bessemer's new athletic field and a big crowd turned out to see the clash. Bessemer won the toss and defended the west goal which gave the wind to their back. Lowellville received the ball and for the greater portion of the first quarter the game saw-sawed.

Bessemer worked the ball down the field and just before the first whistle ended the first quarter Stanley plunged across the line for the touchdown then scored the point after touchdown. Lowellville braced in the next two quarters and it was impossible for Bessemer to score.

In the last quarter Stanley got the ball and again carried it over the line which sent the score to 13. Grist attempted the second but failed. This ended the scoring for the day.

Melillo, right guard for Lowellville played a strong game and the all-around work of Cunningham and McGarvey helped to keep Bessemer from chalking up additional points. Travelino behind the line was a great help to Lowellville.

Outstanding for Bessemer were Purovaki, Grist and Stanley. They carried the ball and on the defense Standish stood out like a star.

Coach Fredericks was well pleased with the team in its first game of the year.

Shenango High Opens Season

East New Castle's Plucky Grid Team Loses To Heavy Slippery Rock

FINAL SCORE SHOWS TOTAL COUNT 18-0

Slippery Rock high school football team opened its 1930 grid season on the Shenango High field on Saturday afternoon by defeating the Shenango High eleven by a 18-0 score in a game marked by numerous fumbles due to a heavy wind.

Shenango was outwitted, this having a lot to do with the defeat. The Slippery Rock boys were too big for the small East New Castle eleven, which made a good showing against their much bigger opponents. After Shenango held Slippery Rock in check in the first quarter the visitors came back in the second to cross the goal line for the first touchdown.

Both teams fumbled many times in the second quarter. Shenango fumbled on the 20 yard mark with Slippery Rock recovering the ball. Through a series of plunges, Straub crossed the goal line from the four yard line for the first tally. Slippery Rock scored again in the third quarter. Gibson carried the ball through after his team mates had brought the ball to the five yard mark through line plunges, and an end run.

The final tally was scored in the fourth quarter by the visitors. A pass from the 40 yard line Adams to Croll accounted for the game. Penn State registered by Slippery Rock. The visitors failed to acquire any of the extra points after touchdowns. The game ended with the ball in mid-field. The final score favored Slippery Rock 18-0.

Shenango threatened to score in the first quarter when it made its best showing of the game. After recovering a fumble Shenango brought the ball to the 12 yard mark only to lose it when one of the backfield men fumbled.

About 500 fans saw the initial game on the Shenango schedule. Shenango high made a good showing against the big Slippery Rock team. For Shenango, Arnold was outstanding while Gibson, Croll and Straub were the best for the winners.

Athletics-Cards Ready To Start Series Wednesday

St. Louis Cards Are In Throes Of Winning Streak And Look Like Best Bets

MACKS HAVE BEEN COASTING ALONG

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN International News Service Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29. — With two great ball clubs—the Philadelphia Athletics and the St. Louis Cardinals—primed for the opening here on Wednesday of their dangerous rivalry, a dramatic and hotly contested world series, America's vast army of baseball addicts today were warmly debating the question of the hour, namely:

"Which team is going to win?" Although betting odds, usually a pretty good gauge of public opinion, have made the A's 13 to 10 favorites to win, the writer, after a careful analysis of various factors, psychological and otherwise, is unable to string along. His answer to the mooted question is this:

"St. Louis will win." With all due respects to the A's, a powerful and well-balanced club, I think they are going to "blow" this one. They are going up against one of the most courageous teams ever to win a pennant in any league—a club that made one of the greatest and most remarkable fights in all baseball history to win the National League flag. Furthermore, St. Louis will ride into the series with the Athletics on the momentum of a winning streak that has been in progress since August 9 last and shows no signs of cracking.

Courageous Team — The Cards have been through the fire. They have been tested as has been no other club in either league, and they have not been found wanting. They have played better than 300 ball in the last seven weeks. They killed off their dangerous rivals, the Cubs, the Giants and the Robins—one after another, as fast as they met them in bitter, hand to hand combats.

On the other hand, the A's, comparatively speaking, ran away with the American League butting and "coasted" in the last few weeks. I would say that the A's are going into the impending series a little "soft." That is to say, they haven't the feel of real, desperate competition that has been met and drink for the Cards for weeks. Listen to American Leaguers, who have become accustomed to American League supremacy in the last three years and this series will be a romp for the A's. Well, I dunno, I fear not. It is hardly conceivable that a club like the Cards made up of a generous sprinkling of players with world series experience a hard hitting good fielding team with a fine fighting spirit will prove the "bus" that the National League entries of the last three years showed themselves to be. In the thirteen games played in the last three years the American League entries won twelve of them.

High Gridders To Resume Training

Aliquippa High Next Friday Opponents Will Be Acid Test For Locals

New Castle high school football team will start rigid training today for one of the hardest game on the home schedule, Friday night when Aliquippa high will oppose the local red and black eleven here at Taggart field.

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh announced today that he will send his gridders through several strenuous workouts this week in preparation for the game, which will be an acid test to the local eleven. Aliquippa high is eager to avenge for that 12-6 defeated handed them last season.

Fans should purchase tickets for this contest early as the visitors have ordered 2,200 seats so far.

Bobby Jones Places Self At Top Of List Of World's Greatest

Atlanta Golf Wizard Has Accomplished Greatest Feat In History

No Golfer In World Today Is Equal Of Attorney Robert Tyre Jones

By DAVID J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—It remained for Jerome Dunton Travers, himself a four-time amateur champion in the days when he could and did play golf, to offer the only possible commentary today on the fact that Bobby Jones had won the national amateur championship at Merion on Saturday. The victory meant that Jones not only had won one championship out of four for the year, five for amateur competition and thirteen for life, each of these a record so unique that it is unlikely that the world will ever see their approach, let alone their equal.

At least Mr. Travers thought so and the reasons he felt that way were succinctly two in number: First, that Jones was too good ever to be equalled; second, that he has the field of golf so covered that no successor, however good, could hope to find the same tractability in his opponents. "They," said Mr. Travers who speaks seldom but always to the point, "think they have earned all the honor that is coming to them if they reach the final round. They don't seem to realize that they are supposed to be playing a golf match."

Good Match Player.
It is fact, not fancy, that the psychology of any amateur match in which Jones is a player has changed abruptly since the master sorcerer began brewing his magic. He couldn't win the amateur championship between 1915 and 1923, in spite of his great ability. Why? Because he always met some opponent, who for one dazzling day at least was unbeatable.

It was an established fact in those days the man who played Bobby Jones always played a little better than his best. Today, the reverse is the case. This statement is made in full realization of the fact that Jones almost was beaten in the 18-hole rounds of the opening day of 1926, 1927 and 1928 and that he did lose one of these to Johnny Goodman at Pebble Beach last year. But these opponents prospered not so much through the fact that they played so very well but rather because Jones played more or less badly. He thought at the time that he couldn't play 18-hole golf. He knows better now.

Not only did he survive almost an entire week of 18-hole play in the British amateur championship in May but he won both of his 18-hole matches at Merion on Wednesday by the rather spacious margin of 5 up and 4 to play. In other words, amateur golf—once imbued with notion that its champion had his fallible moments—now realizes in a dull, spiritless way that it hasn't a chance and spends one full week in proving it. As for 36-hole golf, only one man, George Von Elm, even so much as attempted to give Jones a match in seven, long years.

Von Elm Goes Back.
It was an inspired Von Elm who did this and it won him the championship in 1926 but since then Von Elm hasn't lasted past the second round and today he is just another golfer. It was his passing in the now-famous twenty-eight hole match with Maurice McCarthy—in addition to the early elimination of Harrison Johnston, the 1929 champion, Willing, Voigt, Sweetser and Oulmet—that helped to make the Merion tournament a one-man exhibition.

Johnston didn't even qualify in his own tournament. Von Elm went out the first day of match play. Voigt quickly followed. Sweetser lasted to the semi-finals but unfortunately he had to meet Jones there and the master won by 9 and 8. He shot an approximate 72 over the first eighteen holes of this match, which was fair enough but not quite the thing that Jones can do when the spirit moves him. He knew that he didn't have to be at his best to win.

In fact, this seemed to be his attitude throughout the tournament, even when shooting his 69 of the qualifying round and in meeting Fay Coleman, supposed to be better than Charley Seaver, the 19-year-old sensation of the early rounds. As for Jones' play against Gene Homans in the final round, he all too seldom shoots 39 for nine holes even when he isn't trying. Yet indifferent to this performance was, he turned for home 2 up.

Perhaps one of the younger set, like Seaver, Lawson Little or the Dunlaps, George and Gibson, will bring the spirit of flaming youth into play to give Jones something of a contest in the years to come. I have no great confidence in it. Jones, only 28 today, ought to be facing ten years of his best and his best is far too good. And, anyhow, the boys don't seem to be able to shake off that aspect of inferiority.

When he is good, they haven't got a chance, and when he is bad, they are worse.

AT LEAST IT'S Gentler

Near a military post a sergeant spotted a private wearing his tunic inside out, carrying a bicycle pump in one hand and feeding himself cabbage leaves with the other, and, upon completing mastication of each leaf, shouting: "Who's all right—our mayor?"

It was barely within the non-com's power to summon the buck for breath-inspection. The private was cold sober. "You-you-you," sputtered the sergeant, struggling for an epithet— "Say, is that military?"

The private grinned his embarrassment. "It's like this, sergeant," he explained. "You know I'm taking a college course by correspondence. Well, the sophomores just wrote me to hate myself."—Army and Navy Journal.

Bobby Jones, who won his fourth major golf crown this season when he took the national amateur tournament at Merion, may be through with competitive golf, according to a New York report. He is reported as having confided to Jimmy Johnston that he no longer can stand the nervous strain. His fame has brought him offers to appear in motion pictures and his syndicated articles and books will bring him the capital.

Frank Ferris, who led a crew of Pittsburgh detectives into the mountains near Bellefonte in search of George B. Skidmore, Pittsburgh youth, who wounded a state highway patrolman and another man, is known here. He has officiated as a judge of boxing at Jolly bowl. His last appearance here was a judge at the Davies-Wolcott fight.

Bill Jolly, boxing promoter, has returned from Amarillo, Texas, where he went to attend the funeral of his brother Samuel. His brother passed away three hours after he boarded a train for New Castle. Jolly's bowl affairs are in a muddle but he hopes to find some way to straighten them out. He will appear before Bankruptcy Commissioner E. M. Underwood next Thursday.

Babe Ruth Hurls Yanks To Victory

Babe Ruth Pitches Game For Yankees Against Boston Red Sox And Wins

GIANTS TAKE THIRD PLACE

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—What a happy world this would be if every one was as accomplished as George Herman Ruth. When the Babe found out he could not play in the world's series and could not make a new home run record, he made the fans sit up today to tell about his pitching ability. The bambino hurled the Yankees to a 9 to 3 win in the season's finale with Boston, allowing 11 well placed hits. Lou Gehrig got three hits, winning the American league batting record with a mark of 382, one point ahead of Al Simmons of the Athletics.

A single by Leach in the tenth won 7 to 6 for the Giants over the Phillies. The victory placed the Giants one game ahead of the Robins, snagging third place in the National League for New York. Memphis Bill Terry failed to get a hit in five times at bat and the lapse cost him the National League record. He will have to be satisfied with this year's title and sharing honors with Lefty O'Doul, who set the League record last year with 254 hits.

Bush and Petty didn't last and Teachout finished for the Cubs, ringing down the curtain with a 13 to 11 triumph over the Reds. The A's used some second string players, permitting the Senators to win easily 9 to 4. Washington scored six runs off Earnshaw in the sixth inning.

Rookie Beats Pirates
The champion Cardinals introduced Jerome Dean, Rookie, as a National League hurler and the youngster allowed the Pirates three measly hits, snatching the skirmish for St. Louis 3 to 1.

Hollis Thursday pitched a smart game for the Robins against Boston and then clinched victory by whacking a homer and a double. The score was 6 to 3.

The White Sox wrapped up the season with a 10 to 7 downing of Detroit and Cleveland and St. Louis divided a twin bill, the Browns slugging out a 11 to 5 decision in the opener while the Indians hammered it home in the night cap, 15 to 5.

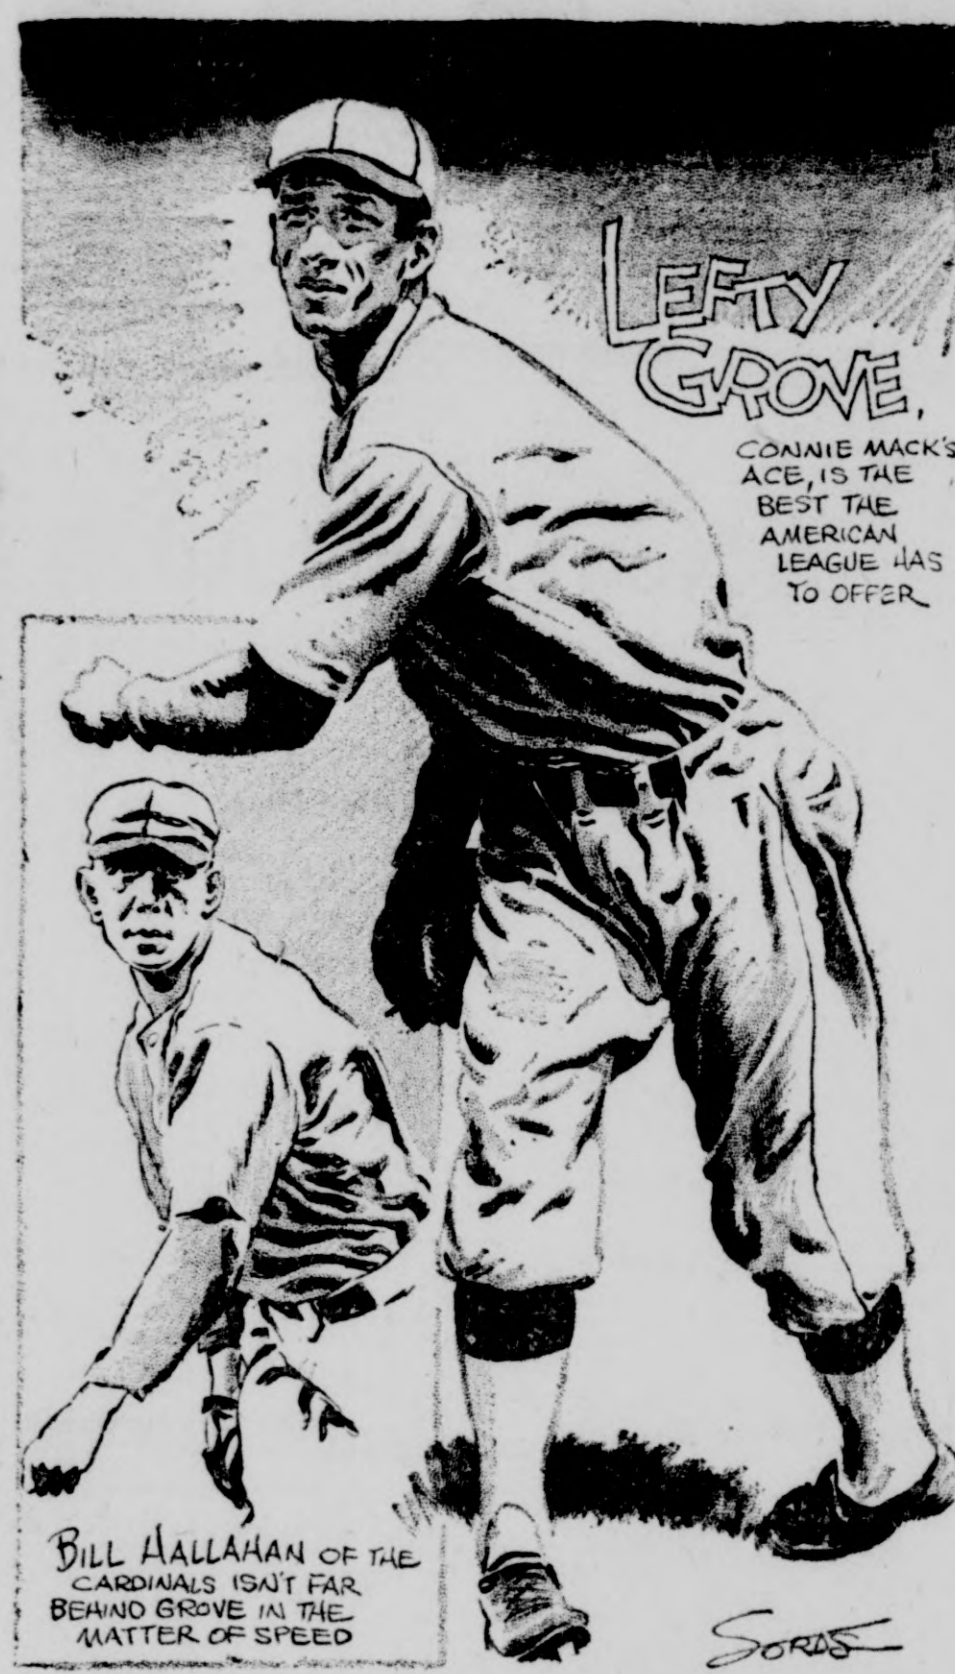

The final week in baseball (Sunday's games not included) was featured by the Cubs winning all of five games, the sustained play coming too late, however, to stop the Cardinals. The latter lost only one in five games, while the Giants took three in four. The Pirates dropped four in seven and the Reds lost five in eight. The Phillies dropped all but one of four games as did Boston. Brooklyn's final week was disastrous, losing them third place, as they lost four in five.

The White Sox headed the American League for the week, taking three of four games. The Athletics won three of five and Boston did the same. Detroit broken even in four tilts and Cleveland won one and lost one. Washington lost three in five, St. Louis two in three and the Yankees three out of four.

Our sturdy ancestors never thought the time would come when mother would come home all fagged out from bridge and father stagger in exhausted from miniature golf.—The Dayton Daily News.

World Series Sizeup

Pitchers

Lefty Grove, ace of the Cardinals, is the best pitcher available for the world series this year. But that doesn't mean the A's have a preponderance of pitching strength compared to the Cards. Not a bit. The two clubs are fairly evenly matched in the box.

In Lefty Grove and George Earnshaw, Connie Mack has two fine pitching men. Let's where does he go from there? Two first class pitchers can hardly be expected to win a series by themselves.

Of course, Mack may get a superb performance during the fall classic from young Bill Shores, Rube Walberg, who hasn't been up to standard this season, and, possibly, Ed Rommel and young Mahafey. Old Jack Quinn may have one star game up his sleeve as Howard Kuhnke had last year—but that's pretty far fetched.

Now look at the Cards. Gabby Street thinks he has five men capable of tossing first class baseball for this series. He ought to know. In Bill Hallahan, a current sensation, Street has a potential series star. If he doesn't become wild as he has before, And then there are Burleigh Grimes, Flint Rhem, Jess Haines and Sylvester Johnson. They may beat the A's.

Scarazzo Champs' Banquet Guests

Players Who Beat Mahoning In Series Dine At Tigers Club

SCARAZZO TO BE IN FIELD NEXT YEAR

Alfonso Scarazzo, local sportsman and sponsor of the Scarazzo baseball team, winner of the city's independent baseball championship, by virtue of their defeat of the Mahoning A. A. in the city series, tendered a banquet to the winning players and guests Saturday night at the Tigers club.

And what a banquet it was! The banquet dinner itself, which consisted of spaghetti and the choicest of Italian dishes prepared by Mrs. Sorto fully satisfied the inner man of those present and the quips of Toastmaster Peter Capitola and the response put over the banquet with a big B.

Among those present was J. V. Bullano, the president of the Tigers club, the beautiful clubrooms of which were the scene of the banquet; T. C. Richards, manager of the champions; Frankie Ross, captain of the team that played championship ball; Kiski Marino, commissioner, and Ed Fritz, sports writer.

The players and guests assembled at 7:30 p. m. and were entertained by music by the Tigers orchestra and vocal selections by Mike Ross and Frankie de Lillo and when Carl Cialella gave the signal the banqueters were ready for the dinner.

After they had finished with the splendid dinner, the toastmaster told why the dinner had been given and formally thanked Mr. Scarazzo for his hospitality and called upon T. C. Richards, father of Tip and Tex, and who has been in baseball 31 years.

Although T. C. had been on a diet Capitola explained that Tony, as he is best known, had no difficulty making two plates of spaghetti, two chickens and the other dishes, such as olives, salads et al. Richards recited how Scarazzo had been interested in sponsoring the team.

Scarazzo purchased all the equipment, he said, and when necessary never failed to take the rubber band off the bankroll in order to see that the Scarazzo baseball equipment was kept on a par with the playing ability of the boys who were striving to win honors on the ball field.

He recited how the team started out with West Pittsburgh and then played Mahoning A. A. which had won 22 straight games. The chronology of the series with the Mahoning A. A. was recited and Richards told how Scarazzo co-alers had easily won the series and accompanying championship.

Captain Speaks.
Captain Frankie Ross was the next speaker and in brief stated that "We had a nice team, a smooth running combination, an aggregation that played together. Mr. Scarazzo furnished us with what we needed and we played ball." He then thanked Scarazzo and also the players for their cooperation.

Numerous others spoke, among them J. V. Bullano, president of the Tigers, a hustling aggregation bent on civic accomplishments. He said he was glad to be a guest at the banquet, extolled the kind of ball that the team played and said success was due to harmony and Scarazzo deserved a winning team.

Kiski Marino, commissioner for the series, said that the series was won fairly in straight games and remarked on the sportsmanship of the losing team. He said it could not have been better. Joe Diana, umpire, recited some features. Joseph Bordonaro, local businessman, congratulated the team and Scarazzo.

Frank Domenick, a member of the Mahoning A. A. who played and lost, was a spokesman and said that Scarazzo co-alers had won the series and he was present to congratulate them. He said that he hoped the Scarazzo outfit would be a faster aggregation next year. Tex Richards also made some brief remarks.

Fritz, sports editor of The News, told of his insight into the baseball accomplishments of boys such as had won the series with the Mahoning. He went back to the days of I. A. A. the teams they had played and brought up the baseball history to the Scarazzo aggregation.

He said that businessmen who were willing to sponsor athletics for the young boys deserved harmony and cooperation and in the case of Mr. Scarazzo he had received it with the result the Scarazzo team had taken a series from a team that had run up a massive string of victories.

General at Banquet.

Clem General, one of the best players in the city and in fact one of the best of the city has produced, spoke briefly. His remarks were straight and to the point and many of the younger boys present absorbed his remarks for they are trying to reach the point he has arrived at in local baseball.

And then the toastmaster called upon Alfonso Scarazzo or "Al" as he is known to the boys. He thanked the manager, captain and the players for the way they had played the game and for their cooperation and said: "We will be in the field next year and we hope to win the series again."

The host of the team: Al Scarazzo, sponsor; T. C. Richards, manager; Frank Ross, captain; Clem General, outfielder; Tex Richards, outfielder; Buddy Marino, pitcher; Amos Autontine, catcher; Carl Genneck, infielder; Mike Turco, pitcher; Bill Augustine, pitcher.

Charles Scaglione, catcher; Bob Palus, infielder; Paul Fahey, infielder; Jim Mash, outfielder, and Louis Ross, infielder.

The Copple brothers and Ralph Monico provided the music with Frankie DeLillo and Mike Ross as the songbirds.

The special guests were J. V. Bullano, Joseph Bordonaro, James Scarazzo, Francis Augustine, Valentino Basile, Ed Fritz, Carl Cialella and Ralph de Caprio.

Sir Thomas may find some solace in the fact that our Connie Mack put together and dismantled half a dozen ball teams before building a winner.—The Detroit News.

GIRL SCOUTS

SUPPER HIKE

The Cardinal troop of Girl Scouts held a supper hike on Saturday, September 27, with 11 members participating. The scouts met at the First Baptist church and from there laid a trail to second dam where they made their campfire.

Knot tying contests were held and several girls passed their fire building. Nancy Mars, a new member of the troop, was instructed in tying the knots. After cooking supper the girls gathered around one of the campfires and sang some songs, after which they started for home.

Mabel DeMar of Youngstown and Mrs. Harry Wettick were special guests of the occasion.

The next meeting of the troop will be held next Friday evening in the Men's Bible class room of the First Baptist church at 7:30.

Senate Probe Of Oil Concessions Appears Certain

Ralph S. Kelley, Chief Of Field Forces Resigns Post And Hurls Nasty Charges

SECRETARY WILBUR DENIES ALLEGATIONS

Kelley Contends That Concessions Have Been Granted Illegally To Oil Concerns

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Another senate investigation into oil concessions and leases appeared almost certain here today as a result of a stringing letter of resignation by Ralph S. Kelley, chief of the field forces of the general land office, and for 25 years connected with the department of the interior.

Kelley's letter alleged that during the last six years Oil companies have been awarded Oil lands in Colorado worth billions of dollars, to which they were not legally entitled.

Charges Are Hurdled
"Confession after confession has been granted the Colorado applicants," said Kelley. "Not because they were rightfully entitled to such consideration but purely and simply as conciliatory measures because of great political and other pressure brought to bear upon the secretary. My continued protests urging that the interests of the American people in this great Oil field should receive protection have been ignored or overruled."

Kelley's letter was addressed to secretary of the interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, and of the latter's administration Kelley said this:

"I had high hopes that your administration of the affairs of the interior department would result in such a change of policy that the rights of both the public and private interests in this Oil field would receive consideration, but I regret that that so far as I can observe attempts to placate and appease the Oil interests at the expense of the rights of the public have been as noticeable since March 4, 1929, as theretofore."

Secretary Wilbur declined to make specific comment on Kelley's charges other than to say:

"Practically all he has to say is nonsense, of course."

The Kelley charges aroused intense interest among senators, and it was freely predicted that another "Oil investigation," perhaps comparable to the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills investigations, will be ordered.

Stationed At Denver

For twenty years Kelley has been stationed at Denver. More recently he has been in Washington. He charged that his being ordered to Washington by secretary Wilbur last July was a move on the part of Colorado Oil interests, whose claims he opposed, to "get him out of the way" in Denver.

Some of the Oil interests that have obtained valuable concessions in Colorado, Kelley said, "are several of the very concerns whose fraudulent practices have been so recently exposed in the investigations and trials of former secretary of the interior Albert B. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair and others."

Kelley's attack on the policies of the interior department bears some similarity to the famous attack which Gifford Pinchot made against the interior department when he was chief forester and Richard A. Ballinger was secretary of the interior. Pinchot charged that valuable public lands were taken away from the government by rapacious interests in Alaska and in the northwest states.

President Taft felt impelled to remove Pinchot because of his charges but in the ensuing uproar, which attained national proportions, Ballinger was forced to resign.

A free land is where every man is entitled to a mistrial by jury of his peers.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

On the calendar this is just another week, but inside the limits of the seven-day period there are a lot of things crowded. For instance the summer weather. September goes out this week, and the summer definitely goes with it, three quarters of the years are marked off and autumn steps in, in a forthright manner.

The Sue Harvard recital for the Jameson Memorial hospital and the service division show "Odds" will keep the Cathedral lighted up this week with a road opening and a couple of feeds sandwiched in on various days and nights.

And then at the end of the week the last day for registration. The last day upon which moral support is selling at anything near par. The voter who doesn't get registered by next Saturday night has no right to complain about what happens in the election.

Out on the hillsides the trees are already showing the fall styles. Reds and goldens and taupes, russets and browns and yellows, whole hillsides that look like a huge fire, with a purple haze crowning them just before dark.

For real enjoyment this is the time of year to gas up the crock and hit for the mountains. Color schemes that would shame a Rafael or a Velasquez, huge splashes of vivid coloring that seems to have thrown recklessly from a giant hand.

With the formal opening of the new Portersville-Elwood road booked for this week, it is worth your while to take a trip over the new highway. It runs through some of the prettiest scenery in Lawrence county and gives you a view of country you probably never saw before.

A pleasant ride after dinner is the one that takes you from New Castle to Enon Valley, Enon Valley to New Galilee, to Darlington, to Koppel, to Wampum, to Ellwood City, to Zelle-nople, to Portersville, to Ellwood City via Wurtzburg and back to New Castle.

If the reports emanating from Alliquippa, America, are true, the whole town is emigrating up here next Friday night. The boys seem to believe they have a club down there this season that will average some previous lickings by New Castle, and they are out for blood in bucketsful.

It's going to be a ball game, whoever wins it, and right now your guess is as good as anybody's.

Farm Products Are Released From Beetle Ban

All Japanese Beetle Quarantine Restrictions Are Removed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—All restrictions on the interstate movement of farm products in the area covered by the Japanese beetle quarantine will be removed by the Plant Quarantine and Control Administration beginning with October 1, according to an order issued today by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Restrictions on the movement of interstate of cut flowers and other portions of plants will remain in force until and including October 15. Restrictions on the movement of nursery, ornamental, and greenhouse stock and all other plants (except cut flowers and portions of plants without roots and free from soil) are enforced throughout the year and are not affected by this order.

For a week or more past very few beetles have been found in the product inspected, and the experience of previous years indicates that by October 1, no beetles will be found in farm products. Under the terms of the Japanese beetle quarantine, the removal of restrictions would have taken place normally on October 16. This relaxation refers to this season only, and restrictions will not be removed next year, the department says, until investigations have determined that the danger period has come to an end.

The restrictions on the movement of farm products which are terminated by this order are intended to be in force only during the period when the beetle is abundantly present and in active flight. There is no risk from the movement of such products after this period has terminated. The inspectors, however, are still finding beetles in cut flowers and the quarantine is maintained for them.

Correct this sentence: "I can't find the cause of your trouble," said the specialist, "and since I've done you no good I'll make no charge."

Autoist Who Gave Man Lift, Beaten

Likely To Lose Sight Of Eye—Anothers Skull Fractured

HOUSTON, Pa., Sept. 29.—Albert Egami, 35, of Houston, is in the Canonsburg hospital, may lose the sight of an eye, and Eli Lefonc, 40, of the Houston district, is at home with a severe skull hurt, all because they gave an unidentified negro a lift early this morning.

Employed at the Muse mine, the negro asked the men for a ride to Canonsburg as they got into their auto to go home.

At the intersection of the Muse-Canonsburg road the negro asked to get out. He then ordered Lefonc to leave with him. He hit Lefonc a blow with an instrument and he fell to the road. Apparently using a pair of brass knuckles, the negro struck Egami over the eye. The negro fled and Egami and Lefonc made their way to Canonsburg.

Barbers Ask Rerating In Professional Class

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The Master Barbers of America have asked the Census Bureau to be listed in the future classification "professional service," instead of "domestic and personal service."

Asserting they had to study bacteriology, anatomy of the upper body, histology of hair and skin and scientific manipulation of the muscles of the hair and face, the barbers maintained they were entitled to the "consideration of their profession."

Census Bureau officials gave the same answer to the barbers that they handed to hairdressers and manicurists, who objected to the "domestic and personal service" classification, because it also included charwomen and bootblacks.

Good Roads Cut Forest Fire Loss

Modern Equipment Also Aiding In Control During Droughts

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Modern equipment, improved roads and efficient organization have kept down the loss suffered from forest fires in drought-stricken areas, according to a report issued by the Forest Service of the Agriculture Department.

Forest fire units have been greatly hampered by lightning fires, 1060 such fires having been reported since January 1 in the northwestern national forests alone. A new record was set in the eastern region when 76 lightning fires started by one storm were recorded by the Quachita National Forest in Arkansas.

This year's operations have brought about greater success in preventing fires from covering large areas of ground. This was due to ability in putting out fires before they had gained a start.

Expenses incurred in forest fire fighting was increased during the last 10 days of August in Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and California. Total fire expenses in the Eastern region amounted to $13,943 in the closing days of August. Dangerous fires in the Lake states territory increased the cost in that area to about $1500 a day. In this region approximately 12,300 acres of national forest were burned over since January 1.
